> Hi Peter
> A quick outline as discussed.
> The HCC is interested in going to the unicities conference (http://www.aca-secretariat.be/index.php?id=881) in Budapest and taking part in a delegation to visit potential sister cities in Europe.
> I have talked through the following as a very preliminary outline with Tim Short from HCC. [redacted]
> Proposal
> Friday 18 November depart Hobart to arrive Budapest, Saturday 19 November (this could be pushed out to leaving on Saturday but it is at least a 27 hour trip).
> Sunday 20 to Tuesday 22 November - attend the three-day conference. There would be the opportunity to set up meetings on the Sunday or to visit Brno potentially as the registration for the conference is not until the Sunday afternoon, with the main program for the conference starting on Monday.
> Wednesday 23 November – Friday 25 November - meetings with the University and City leaders in cities with potential for sister city > partnerships, selection based on the alignment with Hobart for city's relationship with its university as well as UTAS's strategic alignment.
> Cities could include Freiburg [redacted] Lund, Brno (Mendel University - wood science), Bologna [redacted] and/or Cambridge and Oxford. There are of course any number of others, depending on criteria etc.

Freiburg has a population of approximately 220k and a student population of 27k. [redacted]

Lund has a population of approximately 110k (inner city 82K), with Lund University being one of Scandinavia's largest. The student population has increased 12 fold since the 1940s. The University has strengths in natural sciences, medical and health sciences, agriculture, engineering and technology.

Rimini, Ravenna, Cesena as three of Bologna's regional campuses, have populations of 146k, 160k and 90k respectively. Bologna has a student population of *3k – the breakdown for the smaller campuses in not known. In Rimini the University has established a "Technopolis" - a network of infrastructures for research and innovation focusing on industrial research and technology transfer and a specialisation in tourism research. Ravenna has a focus on international programs and Cesena architecture. [redacted]

Brno has 400k people and a student population of 90k – Masaryk University is the largest, followed by the Brno University of Technology and Mendel University (plus three others). [redacted]

Cambridgeshire has a population of approximately 125k including 25k students. Oxfordshire has 160k and 32k students (two universities one of which is Oxford Brookes University, this is one of the highlighted 'anchor' type universities in the UK, has a strong architecture school and has engaged its community strongly as it has expanded and built new infrastructure. [redacted]

Flight/travel times between Budapest and between potential key cities are approximately 2 hours, apart from travel to the UK which would probably involve rail as well as flight.

Saturday 26 November – return to Tasmania arriving Sunday 27 November.

Much more work needs to be undertaken before finalising, to identify best cities, tease out the strategic links as well as to set up meetings to begin the conversations. Interestingly, on a first look none of the cities named above have existing links to cities in Australia (or in the southern hemisphere in general).

The majority of the cost would be flights and accommodation. The conference itself is under 500 euros pp.

Happy to discuss further.

Kind regards

Moya

OFFICE OF THE VICE-CHANCELLOR

Alderman Sue Hickey
The Right Honourable the Lord Mayor of Hobart
Hobart City Council
GPO Box 503

Email: lord.mayor@hobartcity.com.au

Dear Lord Mayor

I am writing to bring to your attention an international university cities conference in Budapest, Hungary, next month, along with an opportunity to accompany the University of Tasmania to visit a small number of university cities to investigate potential sister city partnerships.

The "UniverCities. Higher education institutions and their habitat" conference is being organised by the Academic Cooperative Association for the 20-22 November. The conference program features sessions exploring universities and colleges in small, medium and large cities and towns, including regional development, innovation and partnerships. It is expected to attract about 300 participants, including from governments and municipalities.

Based on our shared interest in the role of universities in the social, cultural and economic future of cities and our recent conversations about the University of Tasmania and its focus on developing its city campuses in Hobart, Launceston and Burnie, I would like to extend an invitation to you and other delegates from your Council to join me in attending this conference. Its theme about the best habitat for universities resonates strongly, particularly its proposed examination of the role of universities as a catalyst of regional rejuvenation and growth.

I would propose that if you and your delegates would like to attend the conference, that we also maximise this opportunity by visiting two to three other cities, including Freiburg in Germany, Brno in the Czech Republic and Cambridge in the United Kingdom. This would allow an exploration of areas of commonality with Freiburg and Brno in particular, potentially preparing a basis to build sister city relationships with these exemplar university cities. The visit to Cambridge would be of interest to see the impact of university infrastructure programs on that city. The Cambridge City Deal has brought the civic side of town and the university together to face particular challenges to ensure economic revitalisation, with Cambridgeshire now one of the UK's top three growing economies.

I would anticipate the travel dates for such a delegation would be for approximately a week to 10 days, leaving Tasmania Friday 18 November and returning the following weekend. We would move quickly to set up the meetings with both the civic leaders of the proposed cities and the respective universities, once your intent to participate is confirmed.

I have also spoken to the Mayors of Launceston and Burnie to extend a similar invitation.

I would be happy to provide any additional information or please contact my Chief of Staff, Moya Fyfe [redacted] at your convenience.

Yours sincerely

INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY CITIES CONFERENCE

Thank you for your letter of 18 October 2016 with an invitation to attend the "UniverCities - higher education institutions and their habitat" conference and the opportunity to also investigate potential sister city partnerships.

Burnie City Council continues the commitment to be a University City and working in partnership with the University of Tasmania to do so, however we are not currently in a position to send delegates to Hungary to the conference on 20–22 November 2016.

The Council would be interested in information and outcomes from the conference and the visits to University Cities and would welcome a presentation during our regular updates upon their return.

Please keep us informed of any additional opportunities to look at national and international university and community infrastructure examples.

Yours sincerely

Hi Cheryl

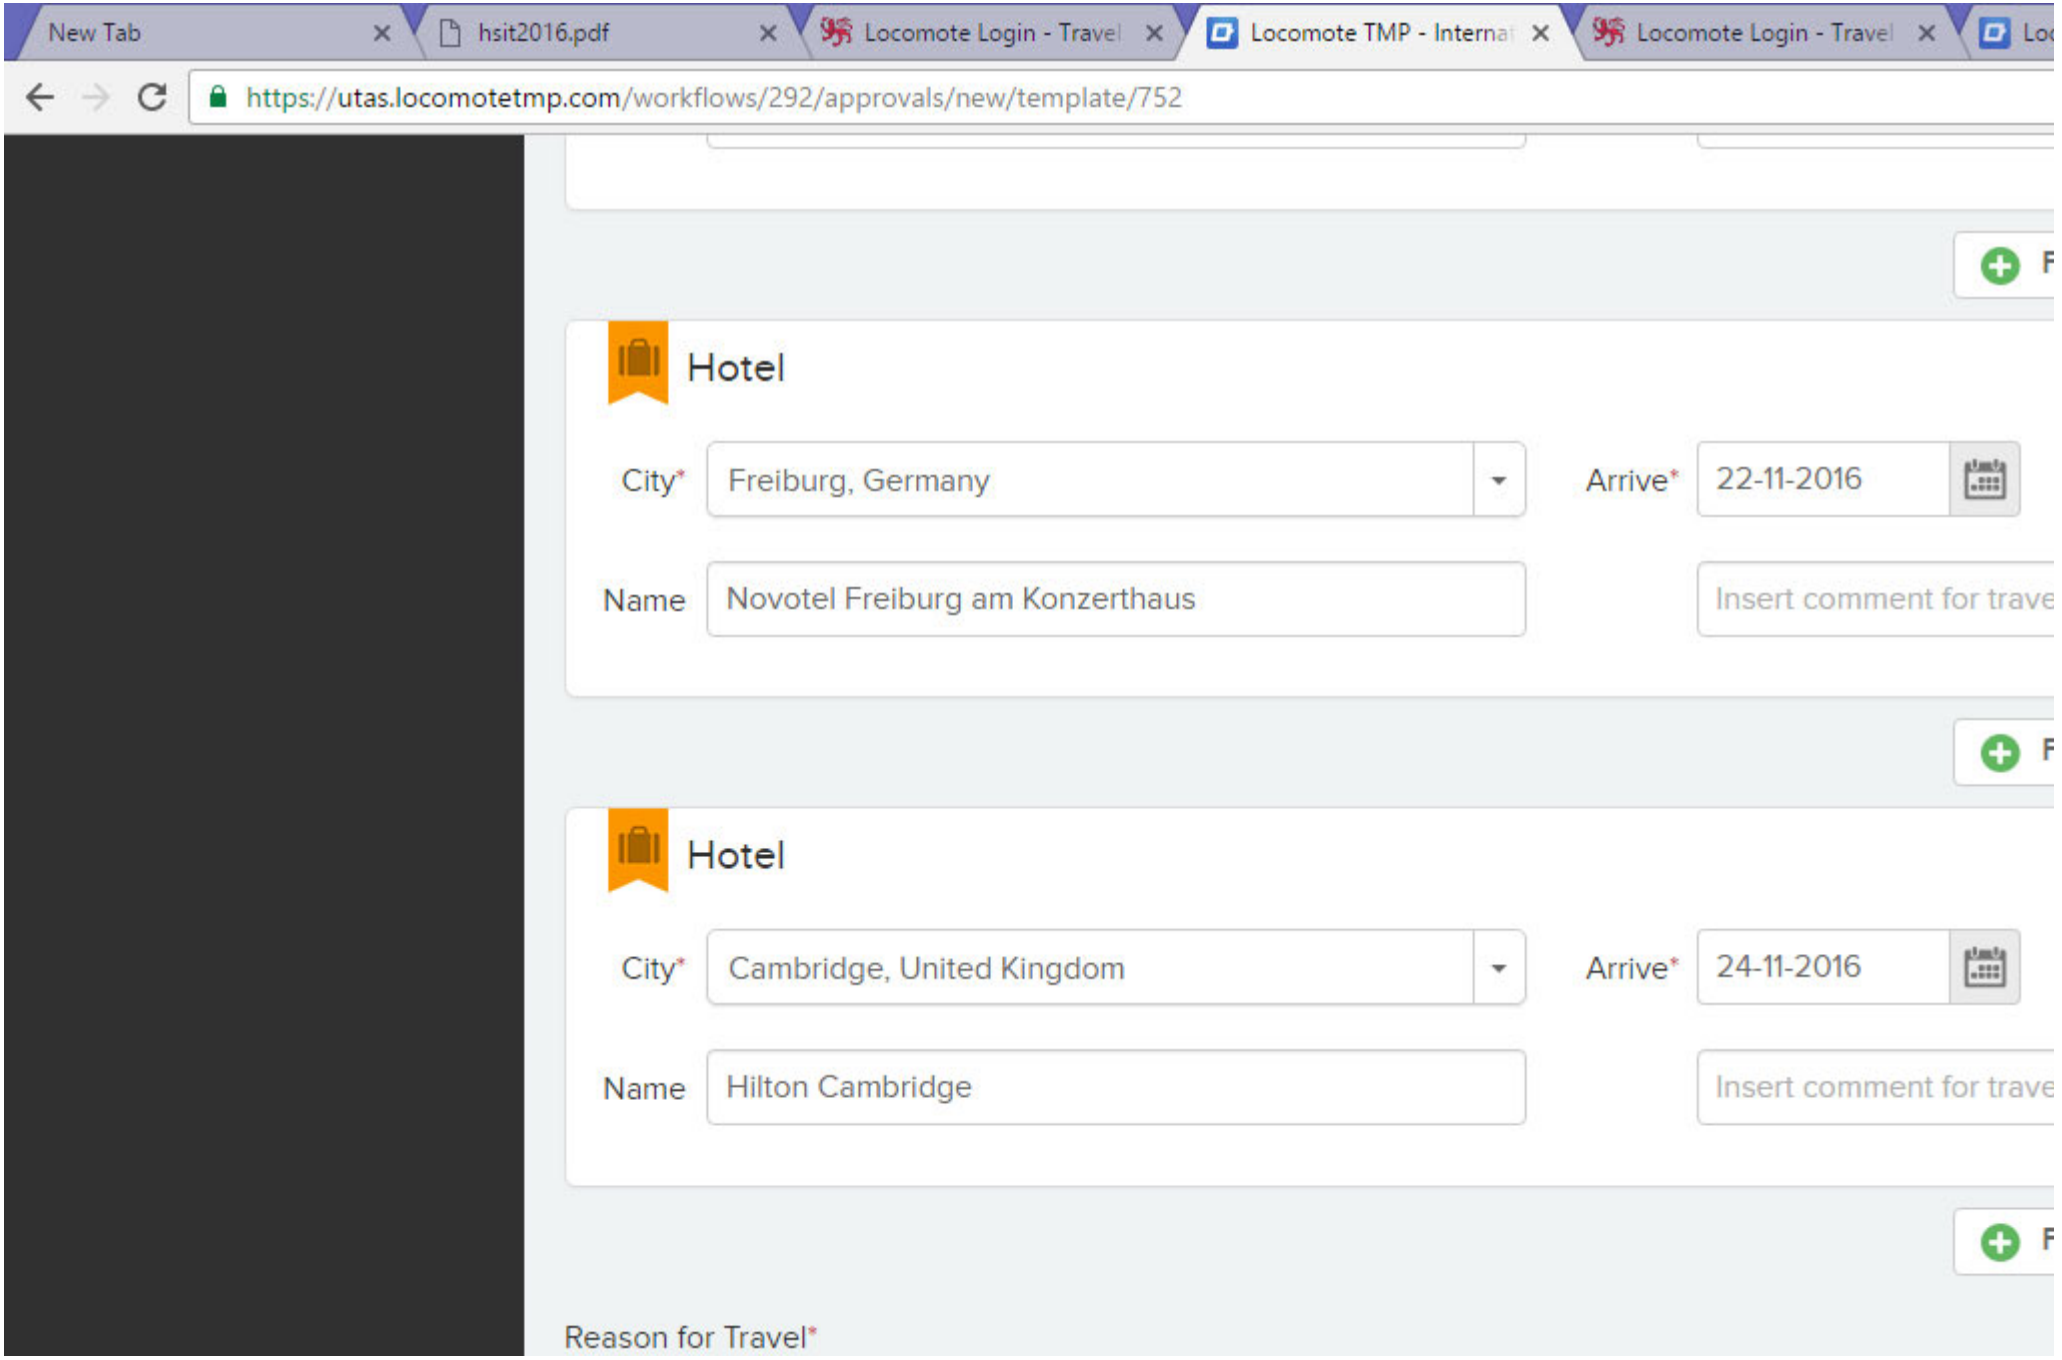

The flights are with Qantas. I have a locomote template for the other travellers. Here is the plan below and I have attached information on the ACA conference which is entitled "UniverCities, Higher education institutions and their habitat."

The flight is due to arrive in Budapest at 11.50am on Saturday, 19 November and the conference commences at 6pm on Sunday, 20 November. This gives the delegates time to settle in and recover from any jetlag. At the tail end of the journey there is additional time on Saturday, 26 November to have a look around the City of Cambridge as the day of 25 November will be set aside for meetings.

Please let me know as soon as possible today whether Jacinta is able to join the delegation.

UniverCities
Higher education institutions and their habitat

Budapest, 20-22 November 2016

Which 'habitat' do higher education institutions and knowledge industries require, where do they thrive? In metropolises and megapolises, which attract talent because of the tolerant environment and the advanced technology they provide, as the American urban studies theorist Richard Florida argues? Possibly. But is this the only 'environment' in which higher education institutions flourish? What about all these cosy little towns, such as Oxbridge, Lund, or Freiburg, which are hosts to internationally well-reputed universities? And, not to forget, remote underdeveloped regions with declining demographies or regions undergoing economic transformation, where universities are being founded as instruments of economic and social rejuvenation. In these cases, it is the university or college which is to rebuild the town or region - and not the other way around.

The ACA Annual Conference 2016 will address all these different 'habitats' - big cities, small towns and remote and challenged regions. In doing so, it will not only explore the relationship between higher education institutions and municipalities, but also of university-enterprise

Trip to:	BUDAPEST, HUNGARY	Reservation code:	UAHHSY
Passenger(s):	YOUNG/JACINTA MS	Airline Reservation Code:	66CP7M (QF ,LH ,BA) BRHT4F (EK)

For at least one of your flights, you may need to change the aircraft en route even though your ticket may show only one flight number and have only one flight coupon for that flight. Further, in the case of some travel, one of your flights may not be identified at the airport by the number of your ticket, or it may be identified by other flight numbers in addition to the one on your ticket. At your request, the seller of this ticket will give you details of your change or aircraft, such as where it will occur and what aircraft types are involved.

Dear Professor Rathjen

Thank you for your recent correspondence promoting the positive benefits to the City of Launceston participating in a delegation to attend the UniverCities conference in Budapest at the end of November and also taking advantage of the opportunity to visit a small number of university cities in Europe.

Your correspondence was discussed with Aldermen at a recent Committee meeting. It was the general view of the Aldermen that the City of Launceston was not in a position to be able to participate in the study tour on this occasion.

The Council's inability to join the study tour in no way detracts from the clear unity of purpose the City of Launceston has with the University of Tasmania in addressing educational deficits in Tasmania and in developing a model for the University Northern Campus that compares favourably with international exemplars.

The Council looks forward to discussing with the University outcomes from the study tour as we continue to work together in collaboration and partnership.

Yours sincerely

Robert Dobrzynski
GENERAL MANAGER

Subject: University of Tasmania visit to Freiburg

Guten Tag Herr Steck und Herr Siefert,
I am writing to you from the University of Tasmania in Australia. We have the great fortune and opportunity to be attending the UniverCities Conference in Budapest from 20-22 November, after which we are arranging visits to some of the more inspiring cities in Europe that have been so successful at integration of their university, civic, business and community sectors. We are particularly interested in what Freiburg has been able to achieve as a university city especially with regard to sustainability integration in areas of transport, energy, waste, water, food and student engagement. We are keen to explore how Freiburg has achieved these things and what your plans are for the future.

We know this is very short notice, but is there any chance that someone from the Sustainable University Work Group could help with a tour of the University that could then meet up with a tour of the "green city" on 24 November or the morning of 25 November? Please note that representatives from our capital city of Hobart are also joining our delegation and who are working with Freiburg City Council on the arrangements for the visit.

I have copied into this email Moya Fyfe, Chief of Staff to our President, Professor Peter Rathjen. Professor Rathjen will be leading the delegation to Freiburg. Sara Franz, Manager Global Engagement in our Office of the Pro Vice-Chancellor (Global Engagement) has been in contact with Katharina Aly, Leiterin / Director International Office of the Albert-Ludwigs-Universität

Freiburg.

Due to previous commitments, Katharina and members of her office are unavailable to participate, hence I am contacting you as my colleagues in sustainability to determine if someone might be available to lead a short tour of the university and perhaps arrange a short meeting with a student leader as well. We are very keen to illustrate what Freiburg has been able to achieve as a university city.

Schönen Tag,
Corey

Also, would be good to spend a bit more time on campus as it were exploring around the library, links into the community (where are the shared spaces, how are those positioned, managed from a visitors perspective, etc).

Cheers,

I would be back in time to attend the monthly CSD leadership group meeting as well.

Alderman Helen Burnet was at the breakfast meeting as well given we wanted to pick Caroline's brains on our upcoming trip, etc. They both suggested it might be useful for me to join the Hobart delegate Bristol trip. Bristol was the European Green Capital last year, which involved a whole of community focus on sustainability broadly, but with specific focus on transport, energy and reducing carbon emissions while growing the economy. The integral involvement of the University of Bristol was important in pulling this off. I do have a direct contact at the University of Bristol through my ACTS connections here in Australasia.

Dear Head Concierge at the Corinthia Hotel in Budapest

We have a group of 11 people from Tasmania in Australia arriving on Saturday, 19 November in Budapest and one further one to arrive on Sunday, 20 November with all 12 to stay at the Corinthia Hotel and to attend the ACA conference which is being held at the Novotel in Budapest. For your information, to arrive in Buadpest at 11.50am on via Emirates Flight EK0111 on 19 November is:

1. Dr Peter Davis
2. Mrs Karen Davis
3. Mr Corey Peterson
4. James McKee
5. Ms Jacinta Young
6. Alderman Jeff Briscoe
7. Alderman Helen Burnet
8. Mr Nick heath
9. Mr Neil Noye
10. Mr George Wilkie

Then, later in the day on Saturday, 19 November, Professor Peter Rathjen is to arrive at Budapest airport at 9.40pm after on British Airways flight BA0870.

Then on Sunday, 20 November Dr Angela Castles is to arrive at Budapest airport at 11.50am via Emirates Flight EK111.

We have noted that the Novotel is approximately 800 metres away from the Corinthia Hotel and in the event not all of our group wish to walk the 800 metres to attend the two-day conference, please let me know whether you can organise car transfers, if required.

Also I sent a message to ATB to arrange transfers on arrival at Budapest airport for our group of 12 but have not heard back. Any recommendations you might have on airport transfers to the Corinthia Hotel and for the return transfer to the airport on Tuesday, 22 November would be much appreciated.

I look forward to your response.

Arriving in Budapest

Arriving by plane at Liszt Ferenc Budapest Airport

The Liszt Ferenc Budapest Airport is located within the boundary of Budapest, 16 km from the City eastwards.

By taxi

Only one official taxi company operates cabs from the airport to the city center, called Főtaxi.

Főtaxi has a desk outside of both terminals, where you can book your taxi. Click here for more information:

The cost of the taxi from the airport to Novotel should be: 6.500 HUF or 22 EUR.

Airport shuttle services:

The miniBUD airport shuttle collect passengers at the airport and takes each of them to their hotel, so this takes a bit longer than taxi. For more information click here: https://www.minibud.hu/en

http://www.bud.hu/english/passengers/access_and_parking/by_airportshuttle

Prices: one way from the airport to the venue: 3900 HUF / 14€

Return ticket (airport-venue): 6900 HUF / 25€

Arriving by train

There are three main railway stations in Budapest: Keleti (Eastern), Nyugati (Western) and Déli (Southern) Railway Stations.

Public transport from Keleti Railway Station

Take metro 2 (red line - direction: Déli pályaudvar) and get off at the next stop at Blaha Lujza tér. The hotel is about 3 minutes walking distance from here. Take the right stairs in the underpass and on street level walk across the tramrails through the passenger crossing.

Public transport from Nyugati Railway Station

Take tram no. 4 (direction: Újbuda - Központ) or 6 (direction: Móricz Zsigmond körtér), and get off at the 4th stop at Blaha Lujza tér. The hotel is about 3 minutes from here. (see the map below).

Public transport from Déli Railway Station

Take metro 2 (red line - direction: Örs vezér tere) and get off at Blaha Lujza tér. The hotel is about 3 minutes walking distance from here. Take the right stairs in the underpass and on street level walk across the tramrails through the passenger crossing.

Arriving by car

Conference participants can park in the BOE parking house next to the hotel, with direct access to the venue. Please use the entrance in Csokonai street.

Prices: 440 HUF/hour /car (ca. € 1,5/hour/car)

5 280 HUF/day/car (ca. € 18/day/car)

Public transport from the airport to the city:

Take bus 200E, go to the final stop Kőbánya-Kispest metro station and change to metro 3 (blue line) and get off at Nyugati pályaudvar. Then take the tram no. 4 or 6, and get off at Blaha Lujza té". The hotel is about 3 minutes from here, on the right side of *Rákóczi ú*t.

Ticket prices:

Single ticket 350 HUF (ca.1,2 €)

Discount package of single tickets (10 pcs): 3000 HUF (ca.10 €)

24 hour travel card 1650 HUF (ca.5.5 €)

72 hour travel card 4150 HUF (ca.13.8 €)

Other possibilities/more information on tickets and cards: http://www.bkk.hu/en/prices/

You can buy tickets in every underground stop, some kiosks, newsagents, and ticket machines.

Public transport in the city

Budapest has a good public transport network. You can easily get from one place to another by tram, metro or bus. You need to use a new ticket every time you get on a bus, tram or metro.

For more information please visit the website of BKK (maps, trip planner, timetables): http://www.bkk.hu/en/tourist-information-about-budapest-public-transport/

3 Overview map

1: Novotel Budapest Centrum (Conference venue + registrations pre-conference day + starting point of guided tours)

2: Akadémia Klub (Welcome reception)

3: Europa Boat (Conference dinner)

3.1 How to reach the different venues

Novotel Budapest Centrum is located in the centre of Budapest on the Pest side*, near Blaha Lujza tér,* which is a major junction for two main roads, the Körút (or krt) and Rákóczi út. Many public transport services stop at Blaha Lujza tér: trams 4 and 6 running in every 3-5 minutes and buses 5, 7, 8E, 110, 112, 178 towards Keleti Railway station and the Danube leave from here. Metro 2 (red line) also stops underground.

Akadémia Klub

Akadémia Klub is located in the building of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences, in the very heart of the city, overlooking the river Danube and Chainbridge (Lánchíd).

From Novotel the easisest to get to Akadémia Klub is by taking metro 2 (red line) from Blaha Lujza tér to the direction of Déli pályaudvar. Get off at Kossuth Lajos tér (3rd stop) and walk south to Széchenyi tér on either next to the river (Széchenyi rkp) or on Akadémia utca.

Europa Boat

Europa Boat can be found on the Buda side of the city, at Szilágyi Dezső tér, near to Batthyány tér. The Boat will be located at the same place, will not move during the dinner, so guests can arrive later or leave earlier if they need to.

From Novotel the easiest to get to Europa Boat is by taking metro 2 (red line) from Blaha Lujza tér to the direction of Déli pályaudvar. Get off at Batthyány tér (4th stop) and walk south on Bem rkp (next to the tram track) following the river until you reach Szilágyi Dezső tér, with a church in the middle. Here you'll see Europa Boat.

Tempus staff will help participants getting to Europe Boat by taking the metro as detailed above – time of leaving the Novotel will be announced at the conference.

4 Practical information

4.1 Internet access during the conference

Wireless internet will be available for all conference participants at Novotel Budapest Centrum. Login and password information can be requested at the hotel reception or at the conference registration desk.

4.2 Time zone

Hungary is in Central European Time zone: UTC/GMT+1 hour.

4.3 Climate

Budapest has a temperate climate with four seasons spanning the whole year. November can be quite cold already with temperature of 5-7 degrees and even snow could be possible. The weather forecast for 20- 22 November is 8-11°C during the day and 5-6°C in the evening, with some possible rain on Sunday.

4.4 Getting around

Public transport

Budapest has a well-developed public transport network. Trams, buses and metros will take you almost anywhere in the city.

Tickets of the BKK are valid for the entire public transport network. A single ticket is valid for one hour for one type of service. So with a single ticket you can hop aboard trams and buses, but if you change to another, you will need to use another ticket. Single tickets can be purchased at the price of 350 HUF from ticket machines or in metro stations or on some bus services from the driver at the price 450 HUF. 24 hour and 72 hour or weekly travel cards are also available.

For more information please visit the website of BKK (ticket prices, maps, trip planner, timetables): http://www.bkk.hu/en/tickets-and-passes/prices/

4.5 Money and currency

The currency in Hungary is Hungarian Forints or HUF or Ft. One EUR is 310 HUF so 1000 HUF is approximately 3 EUR. You can pay in euros at many restaurants, shops and in taxis and shops usually announce their current exchange rate. If you are paying in Forints, there are banknotes for amounts of 500, 1000, 2000, 5000, 10000 and 20000 – some exist in two different colours as new banknotes are being introduced. There are six different coins for Forints: 5, 10, 20, 50, 100 and 200.

Currency can be exchanged at banks and exchange offices available in town, but it may be easier to use the ATMs. Banks are closed on Saturdays and Sundays, but exchange offices at airports, railway stations and major tourist attractions are open seven days a week. Major credit and debit cards are widely accepted though some small hotels and restaurants may only accept cash.

10-15% tips at restaurants are welcome when you are satisfied and happy with the service, unless service has been already included in the bill.

4.6 Languages

Hungarian is a Finno - Ugric language, remotely connected to Finnish. Many people at hotels, restaurants and shops speak English and some people, especially the older generation, speak German.

4.7 Commercial and business hours

Shops are generally open from Monday to Friday from 10am to 6.00 pm – some are open later, especially at department stores and shopping centers. Some supermarkets are open on Sunday as well.

4.8 Communications

The international access code for Hungary is +36. The outgoing code is 00 followed by the relevant country code (e.g. 0033 for France).The area code for Budapest is 1.

4.9 Electricity

The electric current in Hungary is 220-240 V, 50 Hz. Electrical plugs in Hungary need two round prongs. They can be the ungrounded Europlug Type C or the grounded Schuko plug Type E/F.

ACA Conference Theme, Program and Speakers

ACA Annual Conference 2016:

UniverCities. Higher education institutions and their habitat

Budapest, 20 - 22 November 2016

This year's ACA Annual Conference, to be held in the beautiful city of Budapest, bears the title UniverCities. Higher education institutions and their 'habitat'. The event will explore the relationship between universities and colleges and the cities, towns and regions where they are located. The conference is expected to draw an audience of some 300 participants, including central actors and decision-makers from universities and colleges as well as policy-makers and practitioners from government departments, international organisations, non-governmental organisations, municipalities, enterprises and think tanks. As always, we are striving to offer high-quality information, analysis and discussion.

Theme

The theme of the conference is being hotly debated these days. Which 'habitat' do higher education institutions and the knowledge industries require, where do they thrive? In metropolises and megapolises, which attract talent because of the tolerant environment and the advanced technology they provide, as the American urban studies theorist Richard Florida argues? Probably, but is this the only 'environment' in which higher education institutions flourish. What about all these cosy little towns, of the type of Oxbridge, Freiburg or Lund, which are hosts to well- reputed and even world-class universities? And, not to forget, remote or underdeveloped regions with declining demographies or regions undergoing economic transformation, where higher education institutions are being founded as catalysts of regional rejuvenation and growth. In these cases, it is the university or college which is to strengthen the town or region - and not the other way round.

The ACA Annual Conference 2016 will address all of these different 'habitats' – big cities, small towns and remote and challenged regions. In doing so, it will not only explore the relationship between higher education institutions and municipalities, but also of university-enterprise interaction and cooperation between academic institutions and civil society actors in their city, town or region. Speakers will be higher education researchers and representatives, but also business representatives and civil society actors.

Format

The ACA Annual Conference 2016 will take place on 21 and 22 November, and is to be preceded by a social programme and opening reception in the afternoon and evening of 20 November. The conference itself will feature a mix of plenary and parallel sessions. Plenary sessions will include 'classical' presentations, panel discussions and 'debates'. In addition, there will be three interactive parallel sessions which will be repeated once, allowing participants to attend two such dynamic sessions instead of only one. The programme also includes the by now legendary conference dinner.

Tempus Public Foundation

Traditionally, ACA Annual Conferences are organised in cooperation with ACA members and other important local partners. This year, ACA is very proud to co-organise its Annual Conference together with the Tempus Public Foundation (TPF), its Hungarian member organisation. TPF celebrates its 20th anniversary this year and the conference is part of the anniversary festivities.

Speakers

In our choice of speakers we remain very 'conservative'. We invite only speakers who have something to say and who are able to say this well. Presenters at ACA Annual Conferences are chosen exclusively from a small group of internationally reputed experts in higher education research, policy and practice. In the coming weeks, we will present some of these outstanding personalities to you.

Overall, we aim at an event that not only provides useful information, reflection and analysis, but also ample opportunities for discussion, peer learning, and networking.

Paper: UniverCities and Sister City relationships

UniverCities and sister city relationships

What is the University's interest in sister or twin cities relationships? Can deepening the University's partnerships with our major regional cities drive economic and demographic regeneration for Tasmania's communities for the 21st century?

It is proposed that the University of Tasmania, with city representatives, send a delegation to the Academic Cooperation Association Annual Conference 2016 UniverCities - Higher education institutions and their habitat in Budapest at the end of November. The conference will explore the relationship between higher education institutions and municipalities, with a focus on small, medium and large cities but also "remote underdeveloped regions with declining demographies or regions undergoing economic transformation, where universities are being founded as instruments of economic and social rejuvenation. In these cases, it is the university or college which is to rebuild the town or region - and not the other way around."[1]

The confirmed $300m Northern Transformation project, which will see the University of Tasmania's campuses in Launceston and Burnie relocated into those cities' CBDs in alignment with the Federal Government's Smart Cities Plan and the State Government's Northern Cities Major Development Initiative and the proposed $400m STEM precinct proposal for Hobart has been illustrative of what can be achieved for improved social and economic outcomes through aligned vision and strategy across the Tasmanian community. Support and advocacy from the major Tasmanian cities and local government organisations has been instrumental in securing these projects.

The Budapest conference will inform the development of a city-university strategy which will drive:

1.) The identification of potential exemplar international sister cities to progress individual partnerships for Hobart, Launceston and Burnie, informed largely by the alignment between the University of Tasmania and the universities in those cities but also areas of commonality between the cities: and
2.) The development of new memoranda of understanding between the University of Tasmania and each of the Tasmanian cities, which will deepen the relationship with each of the cities and articulate a shared vision and ambition for the University with the city.

Background

We have seen in the media reference to university cities and comparisons drawn sometimes favorably sometimes not to Hobart and Launceston in particular, with university cities such as Oxford and Cambridge. We also regularly read of the distinction between town and the gown – referenced particular as the sometimes standoffish, compartmentalised relationship that can colour the relationship between a city and its university but instead should speak of the strong bonds between the two. The intent is to reset the relationship between Hobart and the University, Launceston and the University and Burnie and the University, to set a strategic direction through a deepening of the partnerships between each city and the University that supports investment in human capital for Tasmania and thereby delivers social and economic outcomes across the state. The key to these partnerships is to create an education ecosystem in the hearts of the cities, and with the city and the University co-evolve the future productivity and prosperity of our cities and the University of Tasmania. Unlike most other states and communities around the world, we have one university. Similar to our partnership with the State Government, as the sole University, we can forge partnerships with our cities, largely without competition.

Across the globe, cities are turning to "anchor" institutions such as universities to help solve some of the cities' most critical issues. In The Road Half Traveled – University Engagement at the Crossroads, the definition of the university as an "anchor institution," is explained as being one that consciously and strategically decides to apply the institution's long-term, place-based economic power, in combination with its human and intellectual resources, to better the welfare of the community in which it resides" [2]. The Baltimore City Anchor Plan for example sets out a strategy that recognizes that the city's institutions serve as a catalyst to attract and retain people, create jobs and support economic growth. [3 and 4]

Cities also are increasingly focused on the development of human capital for economic growth, creativity, innovation, diversity, and social enterprise. Universities are critical to the development of human capital and therefore to equipping cities for the challenges of the future. International experience is demonstrating that the success of cities, from populations of as few as 60,000 to the mega cities of 10 million people or more, can be intrinsically tied to that of universities, and those most successful cities have established relationships with their universities.

In the Vienna Communique 2015, Global Universities and their Regional Impact, Chicago University President Robert Zimmer outlined four reasons he believed demonstrated why universities are at the heart of the relationships cities need:

- University's take a long term view; they are anchored in resilience when surrounding them is uncertainty. That is why autonomy is critical.
- Universities are focussed on excellence.
- Universities value diversity - both in thought and in makeup.
- Universities are skilled at forming partnerships.

For cities, success and competitive position depend on success in all of these features. The first two are essentially dependent upon human capital – that is, cities need to attract and develop talent, human capacity, and relationships that are necessary for enabling economic growth, creativity and innovation, and they need to do this on a global stage.[5]

Universities also need their cities. Globally, competition to attract talent is fierce for universities and their international rankings depends on being successful in this pursuit. President Zimmer makes the point that the "the nature of the ambient city itself, whether it is a magnet for creative and innovative people, culture, and businesses, has a significant impact on a university's competitive position for recruiting". In turn, the university needs to be the best place for academics and students to do their work. The publication The University and the City published in the Times Higher Education last year, points to the symbiotic relationship between cities and universities. "A university can only thrive in an attractive location, and if cities want to success in today's global economy they need good universities and their graduates".[6] An exemplar of this is Cambridge in the UK, which has one of the largest university-partnered infrastructure programs, founded on a deliberate change the nature of the connection between the city and the university. The Cambridge City Deal has brought the civic side of town and the University together to face particular challenges to ensure economic revitalisation, with Cambridgeshire now one of the UK's top three growing economies.

The first sister city relationship is thought to date from the 9th century between Le Mans in France and Paderborn in Germany – a product of historical connection. US President Eisenhower created Sister Cities International in 1956 as a network that would champion peace and prosperity through encouraging the formation of relationships between different cultures, where people could understand and celebrate differences and like other schemes, such as Fulbright Scholarships, build friendships that would offset the chance of future conflict.[7] There are many thousands of sister city partnerships between cities, towns, and counties all over the world, nowadays in the main founded to encourage cultural exchange and foster "mutual respect, understanding, and cooperation". Geographical distance has little influence on the selection of sister city candidates, with the emphasis on those elements that leverage the similarities - Oxford for example is twinned with Bonn, Leiden, Grenoble and other university cities. In The University and the City publication, the City of Birmingham reports that an important outcome of their city partnerships is the strategic opportunities they open up for their institutions, in particular through the University of Birmingham. "The university brings to the city students from over 150 different countries around the world and sends out its alumni to at least that number, thereby maintaining global connections…together we are constantly creating new ambassadors for the city-region, thereby laying the foundations for our future prosperity."[8]

Closer to home, the City of Melbourne set about a deliberate strategy to develop its relationships with its universities from the mid-1990s. A paper to the World Conference on Urban Education, The Role of Education in the Regeneration and Cohesion of the City of Melbourne, asserts that "in the context of, and perhaps even as part of, this growth in higher education, the [City of Melbourne] took a lead in recognising the contributions of educational institutions, their students and staff to the City, by seeing the need for a joint development strategy that consisted of more than a sum of the separate institutional engagement programs and projects". The strategy was driven by the City Council, with the state Government and a business group called the Committee for Melbourne. It involved more formal linkages with its education and training sector and in part, leveraging the City's Sister Cities program in collaboration with universities to engage internationally, with partnering cities including Osaka, Tianjin, Boston, and Milan. Sectors with business potential for Melbourne have been identified for each city. [9] Benefits have included the growth of the international education sector, research collaborations, linkages throughout the world, new business development, start-ups and entrepreneurship.

Sister Cities International says the secret to the most effective partnerships for cities is that they should not just be municipality-to-municipality. "Cities have an opportunity to strategically align fragmented bi-lateral partnerships – city-to-city, port-to- port, business-to-business, chamber-to- chamber, university-to-university – into a more cohesive, comprehensive approach for boosting shared growth across two markets". 1.0 UTAS Hungary Country Engagement Snapshot

There is limited engagement between the University of Tasmania and Hungary.

Since 2010 there have been two students who have taken an outbound student exchange to Hungary from the University of Tasmania as part of the Australian European Network exchange program.

There have been five commencing students from Hungary since 2011 and there are no formal partnerships with institutions in Hungary.

Prof Bob Pease, Head of Social Work at the University of Tasmania has undertaken a visiting Professorship at the School of Social work, Faculty of Social Sciences, Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest, Hungary.

In 2012 the Tasmanian College of the Arts (TCOTA) hosted Professor Marta Nagy as Artist in residence at the School of Visual and Performing Arts. Prof Nagy is a Professor and Head of Program of Ceramic Design at the University of Pecs, Hungary.

2.0 Learning

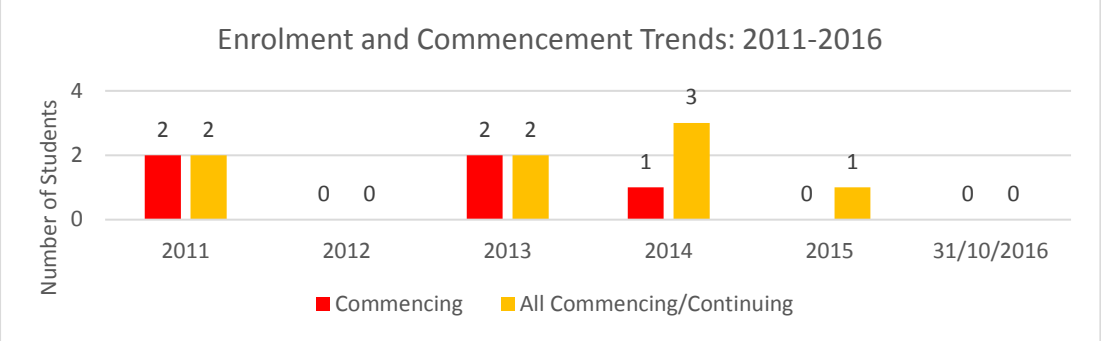

2.1 Student Mobility

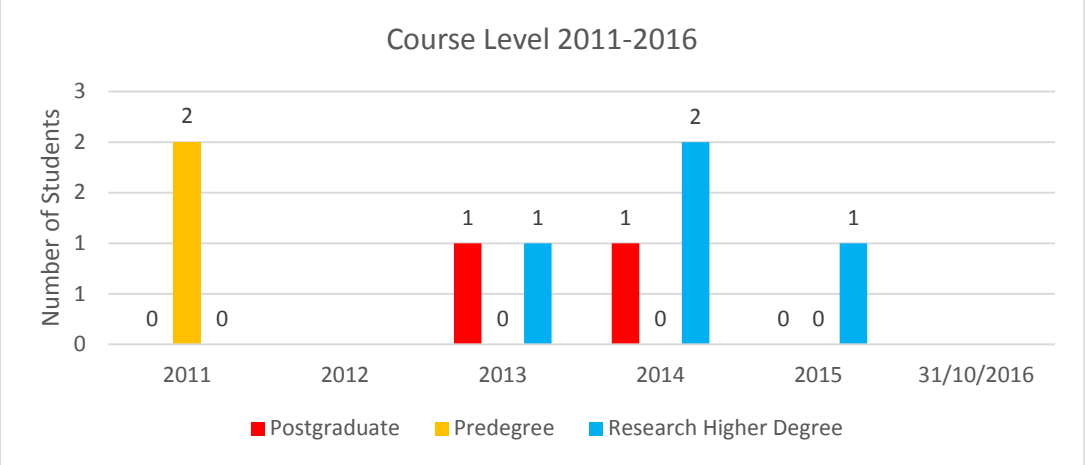

The University of Tasmania does not have any formal direct partnerships with institutions in Hungary.

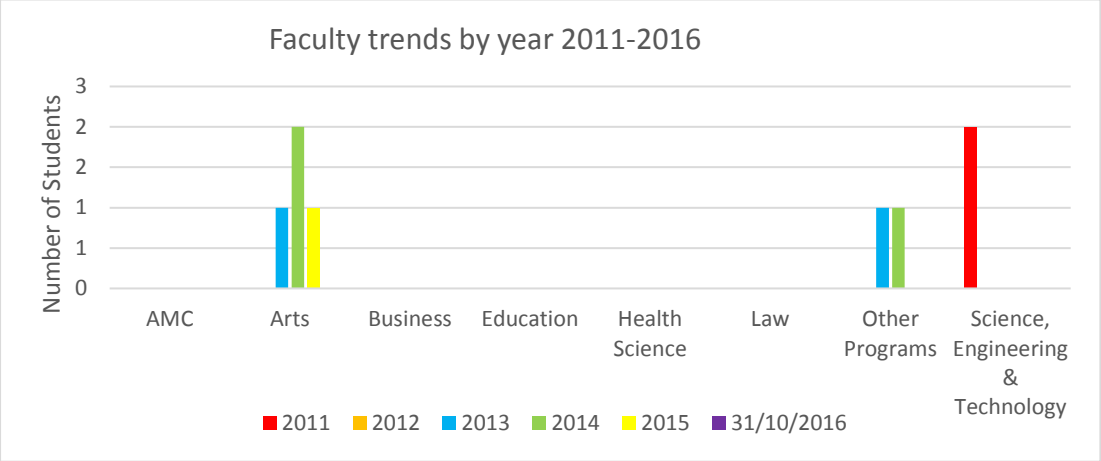

There is an indirect relationship with Eötvös Loránd University through the Australian-European Network (AEN). The AEN network is a group of seven Australian Universities who have joined with the Utrecht Network of thirty-two European Universities (UN) to form a multi-lateral student exchange program. The aim of both networks is to further the internationalisation of higher education through student mobility, summer schools, the internationalisation of curricula and co-operation at an institutional level. Application to the program is through a competitive process and two University of Tasmania students successfully applied to Eötvös Loránd University for outbound exchange in 2013 and 2015.

UTAS-HUNGARY COLLABORATIVE RESEARCH SUMMARY

Overview

The University of Tasmania has a publication history with Hungary in the Web of Science database dating back to 1982 although the number of publications is very low (29). The University of Tasmania is ranked 17th of the Australian Universities collaborating with Hungary by publication volume.

Key research areas in the University of Tasmania's collaboration with Hungary include Geochemistry & Geophysics, Astronomy & Astrophysics, Cell Biology and Evolutionary Biology. The key UTAS researchers involved in these collaborations include David Green (Earth Sciences), Erik Wapstra (Zoology), Nataliya Nikolova (Maritime and Logistics Management) and Kiril Tenekedjiev (NC Maritime Engineering and Hydrodynamics).

Freiburg City Tour – Innovation Academy

Freiburg Green City Tour – Innovation Academy

1.	Introduction: Sustainable development in Freiburg The City of Freiburg is known internationally for its political and civic commitment to sustainable development and the environment. This introductory lecture will deal with the use of renewable energies, the development of a city of close proximity, the expansion of public transportation and cycling networks, and the Climate Action Plan for the city.	Wed 23 Nov 9:00-10:30
2.	Visit to one of the most ecological hotels in the world with solar collectors, solar modules, and four small wind power installations on the roof garden, energy and water saving measures, a heating plant using wood pellets and a ground water cooling system. The hotel consists of different buildings, a main building from the 19th century and more recent buildings from around 1980. The whole complex has been refurbished step by step in the last years.	12.00 - 14.00
3.	Refurbishment of the University library The building of Freiburg's University library is getting refurbished with a budget of nearly 50 Million Euros. The modernization became necessary because of damages on the facade and building- technology that was not longer up to date. The Degelo office from Basel, Switzerland won the first place of the European-wide competition in 2006. The draft of Degelo with a new groundbreaking architectural form responds strongly to the urban context. Through the new façade, the building becomes part of the environment, and the environment becomes part of the building. The reduced outer surface of the building, the high energy standard, high-quality sun protection glazing, triple insulation, and ground water cooling system will in the future lead to an energy saving of more than 60 percent.	14.00 – 15.00

4.	Freiburg Transportation Concept Introduced in 1999, new Freiburg Central Station is the central traffic hub of the city. The tramway bridge crossing the station allows for easy combination of rail and urban public transport. The solar facade of the stations high-rise buildings also symbolizes Freiburg's claim as a Solar City. The Mobile as a combined service center around traffic services and as a bicycle parking garage complements the concept of sustainable mobility. Introduction to Freiburg transportation planning and presentation of mobile operators and tenants like the Car-Sharing association or the Café Velo.	Wed 23 Nov 15.00 – 16.00
5.	Vauban: The model district Vauban is a former military barracks that was built in 1938. In the 1990s, it was converted into a new urban district with a very special quality of life. Learn how this district has become an internationally famous example of sustainable residential development: ▪ Mobility ▪ Renewable energies Green corridors ▪ Citizen participation ▪ Passive and low energy houses ▪ Joined housing development ▪ In 2010, the Vauban city district was presented at the EXPO in Shanghai as an example for sustainable city planning. ▪	16.00 – 17.00

Tour of Old City – Hosted by Freiburg City Council

6.	Historical and current development of the old town The historical town of Freiburg was largely destroyed in the World War II. Due to careful reconstruction and the establishment of a pedestrian zone, the heart of Freiburg is today an attractive and vibrant centre. Current projects, such as a new tramway line and the extension of the pedestrian zone set up the course for the future. ▪ Oberlinden: Visit to the medieval city centre ▪ Konviktstraße: Refurbishment of the old town during the 1970s ▪ Organization and enlargement of the pedestrian area ▪ Tram network in Freiburg since 1901 ▪ Parking management Extension of the pedestrian zone Freiburg Old Town is a vibrant center with prosperous retail. To meet the growth of the city, it is planned to be extended in the next few years. The plans also consist of a far-reaching redesign of streets and squares.	Thu 24 Nov 10.30 – 11.30

1.0 UTAS Germany Country Engagement Snapshot 2013-2016

Collaboration between the University of Tasmania and Germany has been varied over the past five years. General collaboration with University of Tasmania faculties and the success of research scholarships/sponsorship indicates that there is a healthy level of engagement.

Student exchange, although strong, has been unbalanced between the University and German institutions, with greater numbers of inbound students. Student enrolment numbers have risen in 2016 although national trends indicate that German international student numbers are lowering.

Sixty-six percent of alumni are in the two age brackets of 20-29 and 30-39 years of age.

Overview of UTAS and German collaboration and linkages.

The Faculty of Science Engineering and Technology supports a Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) Engineering Research Group which comprises Professor Larry Forbes, Professor of Applied Mathematics, Dr Michael Brideson, Lecturer Mathematics and Physics as well as collaborators from University of Freiburg, and University of Queensland. Dr Peter While was a former University of Tasmania Postdoctoral Research Fellow at the University of Tasmania who is now an applied mathematician at the University of Freiburg.

Dr Scott McAdam, Associate Professor Timothy Brodribb and Dr Frances Sussmilch from the School of Biological Sciences have led an international collaboration involving world-leading researchers from Germany's University of Würzburg and Purdue University, USA, to characterise a fern gene essential for the perception of a sex-determining hormone in plants announced in November 2016.

Her Excellency Professor the Honourable Kate Warner, Governor of Tasmania has collaborated with scholars from the Max Planck Institute for Comparative Criminal Law and Criminology in Freiburg.

PhD student Rachel Kelly from the Centre for Marine Socio-Ecology has been selected as one of 25 participants (out of 750 applicants) in the Green Talents program run by the German Government. The Program includes a two week study trip to a number of research institutes across Germany. Participants will also return to Germany in 2017 to conduct three-months of fully-funded research at an institute of the participant's choice.

Professor Rainer Hedrich, from the Institute for Molecular Plant Physiology and Biophysics, in Wurzburg, Germany who is also an Adjunct Professor at the Tasmanian Institute of Agriculture (TIA).

Climate Research Fellow Dr Rebecca Harris (ACE CRC) has been awarded a prestigious Humboldt Fellowship to work in Germany in 2017. Dr Harris will further her research work around ecosystem stability and climate variability with Professor Klaus Henle at the Helmholtz-Zentrum für Umweltforschung in Leipzig.

In 2015 Dr Matthias Hartwig who is a Research Fellow at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law, Heidelberg, Germany was a visiting Research Fellow at the Faculty of Law.

Angelika Böck is an International Artist in Residence at the Tasmanian College of the Arts. Angelika is a visual artist and interior architect. Her work deals with phenomena of human perception, and contains elements from both art and research derived from field studies within different cultural settings. Her artwork, ranging from eye drawing, video and installation, to photography, text and sculpture has been exhibited internationally; it has also been published in art magazines, scientific journals and books. She currently lives and works in Munich (Germany) and Bario (Sarawak/Malaysia).

Recent graduate of a PhD in Law, Dr Supo Owoeye has been awarded the Humboldt Research Fellowship for Postdoctoral Researchers. The project will consider from a legal standpoint the extent to which the legal framework for regional integration can be designed to enhance innovation and sustainable development, and promote the interest of African nations in the global governance of trade.

AMC is collaborating with the University of New South Wales to acquire experimental data sets to develop and validate computational models for noise prediction. The project is funded through a $1 million Australian Research Council Linkage Project grant and supported by Pacific Engineering Systems International, Bundeswehr University Munich, Germany, and RK Acoustics, UK.

In 2014 Dr Rosanne Guijt from the University's School of Medicine and Australian Centre for Research on Separation Science (ACROSS) secured a prestigious Alexander von Humboldt Research Fellowship for Experienced Researchers. Dr Guijt received sponsorship for an 18 month research visit to Germany to work with Professor Andreas Manz, founder of lab on a chip research, at the Korea Institute for Science and Technology (Europe) in Germany.

Prof Jeff Malpas is a Distinguished Professor at the University of Tasmania. A trained philosopher, but with a University-wide appointment, he supervises students across several disciplines including geography, philosophy, architecture and the arts, also publishing across those same disciplines. He has had a number of research appointments including:

- Humboldt Research Fellow, Husserl-Archiv, Albert-Ludwigs-Universität Freiburg, Germany, 2010.
- Humboldt Research Fellow, Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München, Germany, 2008
- Humboldt Research Fellow, Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München, Germany, 2004
- Humboldt Research Fellow, Ruprecht-Karls-Universität Heidelberg, Germany, 1997-99

2.0 Learning

2.1 Student Mobility

Traditionally Germany has not been a popular location for outbound student exchange from the University of Tasmania. Although the number of exchange agreements has been high the student numbers have not been in balance. The Student Mobility Office is currently reviewing exchange partners in order to provide a report on German exchange activities moving forward. Anecdotal evidence suggests that the physical location of current partners is not desirable.

The Australian Government's Department of Industry, Innovation, Science, Research and Tertiary Education has funded a number of ISEP scholarships ranging from $2,500 to $5,000 for Exchange students studying to apply for a semester or two at one of our partner Universities in Austria and Germany. In 2017 there are two scholarships available and there have been three applicants for 2017 places. These scholarships are designed to assist with the costs associated with living and studying overseas.

2.2 Students at UTAS: Germany

Traditionally the number of German students studying at the University has been stable. During 2016 there has been an increase in non-award students studying at the University.

3.1 UTAS-Germany Collaborative Research Summary

UTAS-GERMANY COLLABORATIVE RESEARCH SUMMARY

Overview

The University of Tasmania has a long publication history with Germany in the Web of Science database (pre-1980) but the relationship has been most productive in the last 5-6 years. UTAS has co-authored more papers with Germany in the last 6 years (2010-2016) than for the entire period of 1980-2009. The University of Tasmania is ranked 10th of the Australian Universities collaborating with Germany by publication volume. However, there is a significant reduction in the number of co-publications with universities outside the Go8 consortium. German co-authorship with Go8 universities has not resulted in higher citation rates or publications in more high impact journals relative to other Australian universities.

The University of Tasmania has a co-publication history with the University of Freiburg via Professor David Forrester's affiliation with the Cooperative Research Centre for Forestry. Professor Forrester is currently the Chair of Silviculture at the University of Freiburg.

3.3 Research Collaboration with University of Freiburg

DOCTORAL PROGRAMS –UNIVERSITY OF FREIBURG

The University of Freiburg offers both doctoral research programs and structured doctoral programs.

- Doctoral Program – classical form of individual doctoral studies.
- Structured Doctoral Program – focused research program and structured training strategy. A group of doctoral candidates work on dissertation projects on related topics and meet regularly to present their findings and exchange ideas in colloquiums or conferences.

The university offers a wide range of doctoral programs in both HASS and STEM. Some specific programs that have potential relevance to UTAS include:

- Doctoral Program in Mineral Sciences through Conférence Universitaire de Suisse Occidentale (CUSO)
- The UTAS School of Physical Sciences (Chemistry) is an active partner of the Fribourg Centre of Nanomaterials (FriMat) where interdisciplinary research between Chemistry, Physics, Biomedicine, Geosciences and the recently founded Adolphe Merkle Institute. The Fribourg Centre of Nanomaterials is also connected to CUSO.

1.0 UTAS United Kingdom Country Engagement Snapshot

In general the University of Tasmania has strong engagement with the United Kingdom.

Although student number and exchange linkages may not reflect the connection with institutions in the United Kingdom, the personal relationships many staff and researchers have to the United Kingdom is strong.

- The University has sent 22 students on outbound student exchange experiences since 2011 and received 39 students on exchange from the United Kingdom.
- Enrolments of students from the United Kingdom have seen 14 students enrolled in 2016 with the most popular faculty for students being the Faculty of Science Engineering and Technology.
- The University currently has four formal partnerships that have current agreements with institutions in the United Kingdom.
- Notable University of Tasmania Alumni from the United Kingdom span areas and careers such as Law, art and design and economics.

Dr Imelda Whelehan, former Dean of Graduate Research was recently at Kings College London to participate in the Menzies Centre's programme of public activities with a seminar entitled: The Criminal and the Yarn: adapting and performing notoriety. The Menzies annual seminar series at Kings College London helps to produce a comprehensive and balanced perception of Australia's past, present and future across a variety of topics. The theme for the Centre's 2016-17 seminar series is Screening Australia: Australian Culture and Screen Media in Context.

Professor Edward Byrne AC is the Principal and President of King's College London.
Professor Byrne is a neuroscientist and clinician by background. He qualified in medicine at the University of Tasmania in 1974 and subsequently trained as a neurologist in both Adelaide and London. He is a fellow of the Royal Australasian College of Physicians, the Royal Colleges of Physicians of London and Edinburgh, the American Academy and the American Association of Neurology. He holds the higher degrees of Doctor of Medicine (UTAS) and Doctor of Science (University of Melbourne). Professor Byrne has held many prestigious clinical and research positions in Australia and the UK, as well as advisory roles for a number of charitable bodies relating to his clinical and scientific expertise. Before joining Kings College London, Prof Byrne was Vice Chancellor of Monash University.

Professor Chris Carter joined IMAS as Professor of Aquaculture Nutrition in 2009 and became Centre Director of Fisheries and Aquaculture in 2013. He was a PhD student at Kings College London and prior to his move to Australia he conducted research on the nutritional physiology of fish as a Research Fellow at the University of Aberdeen.

University of Tasmania Alumni Brodie Neill was an exhibitor at the London Design Bienalle in 2015. Brodie's exhibition Plastic Effects, highlighted the issue of ocean pollution and the estimated five trillion plastic items that pollute the world's oceans. Fragmented particles of plastic –a material once considered utopian in itself – enter the food chain to devastate marine life of all kinds, and thousands of tonnes of debris are washed up on Australia's coastline every year. Neill's installation highlighted this problem by harvesting and recycling marine micro-plastic to produce a terrazzo-like composite, inlaid as a kaleidoscopic diagram, displayed in the Gyro table. The exhibition was supported by the Australian Government through the Australian Cultural Diplomacy Grants Program of the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade; University of Tasmania; Dr Jennifer Lavers, Institute of Marine & Antarctic Studies, University of Tasmania (research) and Riva 1920.

On 31st October 2016 the Michael Tate Oxford Scholarship was launched. The new Scholarship will support a student or graduate undertaking studies in Theology at Oxford University in the United Kingdom, covering fees and associated expenses including travel costs and living allowances. The Scholarship was launched by her Excellency Professor the Honourable Kate Warner with the Reverend Professor Michael Tate AO.

The University of Tasmania recently became an inaugural member of the Science in Australia Gender Equity (SAGE) Pilot of Athena Swan. The Athena SWAN Charter provides an evaluation and accreditation framework to help improve gender equity policies and practices in academic institutions, with demonstrable results in the United Kingdom.

Researchers at the University of Tasmania's Menzies Institute for Medical Research have been working with colleagues in the Department of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Cambridge to identify a second transmissible cancer in Tasmanian devils. Thorough genetic analysis performed at the University of Cambridge in the UK provided conclusive evidence that a second transmissible cancer was in fact affecting Tasmanian devils. This new cancer has similarities to Devil Facial Tumor Disease as it causes tumours, primarily on the face or inside the mouth, and is probably also spread between devils by biting.

Since 1904 the University of Tasmania has had a total of 110 Rhodes Scholars. In 2016 Emilie McDonnell, a Law School graduate received the Scholarship. Rhodes Scholars receive a monthly stipend to cover accommodation and living costs and tuition fees while at Oxford for the duration of their scholarship between 1-3 years.

University of Tasmania Alumnus Alice Gerlach returned to the University of Tasmania as a visiting researcher in February 2016 from the University of Oxford. She presented a Seminar for the Institute for the Study of Social Change entitled 'Immigration Detention in the United Kingdom: Women, Dignity and Preparation for Release or Removal'.

Menzies supports a Glial Research team: Young Group who are supported by researchers from both Australia, the UK and Switzerland, Institutions involved with the research team include Australian National University, University College London, University of Melbourne, University of Western Australia, CERN Switzerland, University of Edinburgh and Macquarie University. The research team studies glia cell types with the aim to understand the processes that regulate cell generation and regeneration in the adult central nervous system.

2.1 Student Mobility

Student Exchange with the United Kingdom has seen the University of East Anglia emerge as a popular destination for students over the past two years. Twenty-two students have undertaken exchange to the United Kingdom and the University has accepted 39 incoming students from various partners.

2.2 Students at UTAS: United Kingdom

Although national data has indicated that students electing Australia as a study destination have dropped approximately 12% since 2011, the University of Tasmania numbers have remained stable.

3.1 UTAS – United Kingdom Collaborative Research Summary

UTAS-UNITED KINGDOM COLLABORATIVE RESEARCH SUMMARY

Overview

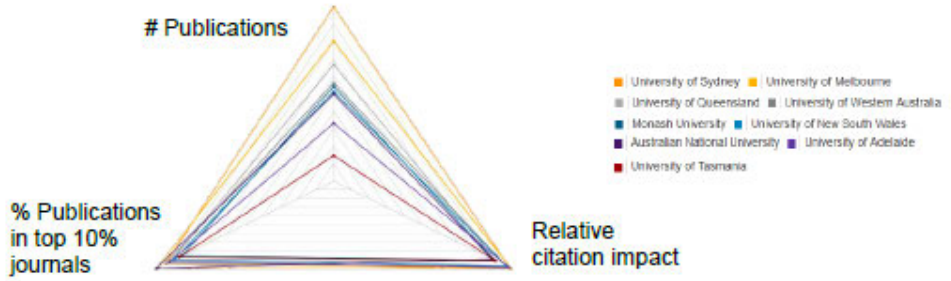

The University of Tasmania is ranked 11st of the Australian Universities collaborating with the UK by publication volume and citation impact and is ranked 6th by per cent highly-cited publications. The number of publications per year co-authored by UTAS and UK based researchers has increased annually over the last 6 years and the citation record of these publications is consistently above world average.

The first UTAS-Kings College London co-publication recorded in the Web of Science database was published in 1994. UTAS has a longer publication history (pre-1980) with the University of Cambridge. However, for both collaborations most publication activity between the organisations has occurred since 2009. Key UTAS researchers collaborating with Kings College London include Graeme Jones (Menzies), Raimondo Bruno (Psychology) and David Mackey (Medicine). Key UTAS researchers collaborating with the University of Cambridge include John Greenhill and Andrew Cole (Maths and Phsyics) and Mardi Dungey (Economics and Finance).

The Institute of Marine and Antarctic Studies has a partnership agreement with the University of Sheffield for research training with two current cotutelle PhD candidates.

In 2016 UTAS was part of a successful research collaboration for a project worth $1.75m, titled 'Enhancing pharmacological and behavioural support to reduce smoking relapse: A Factorial RCT'. The project is a collaboration between University of London, Kings College, University of London, University of Nottingham, University of Stirling, University of Sheffield, University of York, the National Centre for Smoking Cessation and Australian collaborators including UTAS, University of Queensland, University of NSW, and the Cancer Council of Victoria.

3.2 UTAS – Collaborations with Institutions from the United Kingdom

UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

Strategic research initiatives model similar to the UTAS theme areas with the aim to create a shared cross-school vision and development plan for building research capacity and partnerships over the medium to long term. Relevant strategic research initiatives include:

- Big Data – fundamental research into data analysis methods – invites collaboration with external organisations – could link into IMOS and IMAS through emII
- Cancer – relevant to Menzies
- Global Food Security – Agricultural Science

Four interdisciplinary research centres: established cross-school initiatives that have demonstrated a critical mass of academic support in at least three schools and have the explicit endorsement of the University's Research Policy Committee. They extend the research priorities and strategies of the individual Schools by tackling cross-disciplinary challenges and creating a shared cross-school vision in key thematic areas.

- Conservation
- Infectious diseases
- Neuroscience
- Stem Cells

KINGS COLLEGE LONDON

Potential research alignments with The University of Tasmania include:

- Autism
- Digital humanities
- Medical Ethics and Law, and Technology
- Social Science/ Policy

Greater Cambridge City Deal

Greater Cambridge City Deal

Executive Summary

The Greater Cambridge City Deal aims to enable a new wave of innovation-led growth by investing in the infrastructure, housing and skills that will facilitate the continued growth of the Cambridge Phenomenon. It acknowledges the region's strong track record of delivering growth and seeks to support those existing, and new, businesses in achieving their full potential.

The deal agreed between Government and Greater Cambridge allows Greater Cambridge to maintain and grow its status as a prosperous economic area. Our deal will:

- create an infrastructure investment fund with an innovative Gain Share mechanism;
- accelerate delivery of 33,480 planned homes;
- enable delivery of 1,000 extra new homes on rural exception sites;
- deliver over 400 new Apprenticeships for young people;
- provide £1bn of local and national public sector investment, enabling an estimated £4bn of private sector investment in the Greater Cambridge area;
- create 45,000 new jobs;
- create a governance arrangement for joint decision making between the local councils

Introduction and economic overview

The Greater Cambridge City Deal brings together Cambridge City Council, South Cambridgeshire District Council, Cambridgeshire County Council, the University of Cambridge, and through the Greater Cambridge, Greater Peterborough Enterprise Partnership, local businesses, colleges and research facilities in the area.

Greater Cambridge competes on a global stage and is a gateway for high-tech investment into the UK. It is also the innovation capital of the country, with more patents per 100,000 population than the next six cities combined.[1] Greater Cambridge's economic success to date is the story of a networked and connected city region characterised by world-leading innovation. Research into the Cambridge Phenomenon, the cluster of technology firms around Cambridge, shows success happened because:

- A world class university drew talent into the area from across the globe, fostered innovation and encouraged business spinout from that innovation which developed into strong hi-tech, bio-medical and other clusters with over 1,525 technology companies employing more than 54,000 people and a combined revenue over £12bn;
- The area's scale and connectedness allowed overlapping networks to develop and facilitated a culture of cooperation and cross-fertilisation between entrepreneurs and with academics;
- It is an attractive place and competes with other world cities as a good place for business leaders and their families to live, not just a good place to do business.

Greater Cambridge has a diverse economic base with strengths across a broad base of knowledge-intensive sectors: professional, scientific, bio-medical, clean-tech, technology, and advanced manufacturing. The Greater Cambridge area covers the footprint of the Cambridge city and South Cambridgeshire district councils.

Why are we doing this?

Since 1960, the Greater Cambridge area has been home to an ever-increasing cluster of technology, life sciences and services business known as the "Cambridge Phenomenon", a term first coined by Peta Levi in the Financial Times in 1980. The success to date has been widely celebrated, but is now contributing to a shortage of housing and significant transport congestion that threaten to choke off further economic growth.

Retaining our success stories in the local area is as important as generating the home-grown, multi-billion pound international businesses (such as ARM, Autonomy and Marshalls) of tomorrow. In order to deliver more jobs and economic growth, and to unleash the next wave of the "Cambridge Phenomenon", the Greater Cambridge area has to grow physically whilst maintaining ease of movement between key economic hubs such as new economic centres of gravity like the Addenbrookes Bio-Medical campus to the south and the University of Cambridge's sites to the west and north-west and the high quality of life that contributes so significantly to the area's attractiveness and success.

[1] Centre for Cities, Cities Outlook 2014

Key elements of the deal

Gain Share

Greater Cambridge has a critical and essential contribution to make to drive the Government's commitment to overall growth at a national level. The city has developed a clear understanding of the drivers of its economy, its strengths and challenges and the levers it needs in order to achieve its growth potential.

This City Deal represents a step change in the ability of local partners to deliver the infrastructure necessary to support the area's ambitious growth plans. This transformative approach to infrastructure will deliver the scale and nature of investment necessary to ensure the transport network supports the economy and acts as a catalyst for sustainable growth.

Investment fund & Gain Share mechanism

Greater Cambridge will create an investment fund drawing together national and local funding streams to invest in infrastructure that will drive economic growth in the area. Government will support this through an innovative Gain Share mechanism where Greater Cambridge is rewarded for prioritising, and investing in, projects that deliver the greatest economic impact over 15-20 years, commencing in 2015-16.

Over the period 2015/6 to 2019/20, Government will provide Greater Cambridge with £100m, consisting of five annual payments of £20m. This will provide Greater Cambridge with a high level of certainty to commence investment in this ambitious programme of transport infrastructure.

Dependent on the economic impact of the local investments, Greater Cambridge will be able to access up to an additional £400m over 10-15 years.

This investment will sit alongside the over £500m that Greater Cambridge has pledged to invest to enable the supporting infrastructure needed to unlock the benefits of growth in the Greater Cambridge area. This pooling of central and local resources will lead to a total investment of £1bn over the City Deal period.

Selecting the infrastructure projects to drive economic growth

In order to deliver more jobs and economic growth, the city region has to accommodate new and growing businesses and research centres and the people who work in them whilst ensuring ease of movement between key economic hubs. Greater Cambridge needs to connect new developments to each other, and to existing research institutes, science and business parks; to Cambridge city centre and transport hubs, and to the Alconbury Enterprise Zone; to both universities and to residential areas.

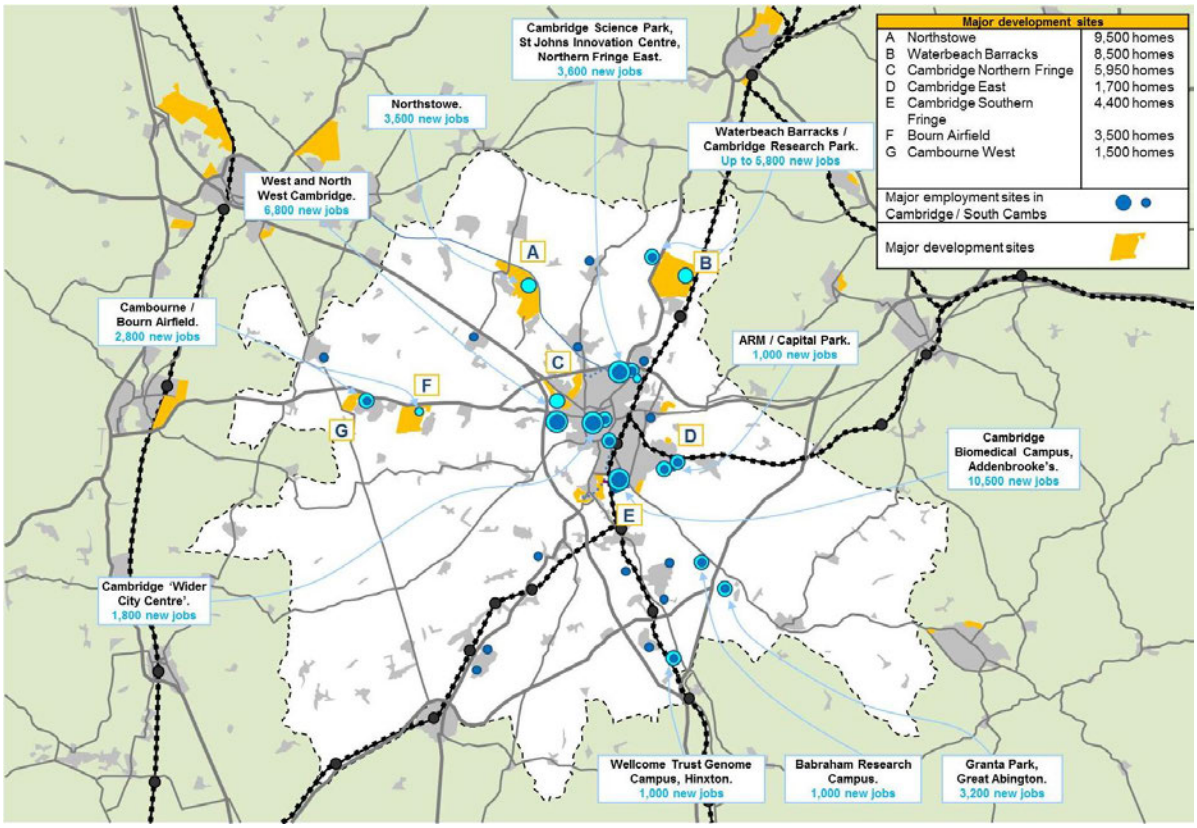

To achieve this, Greater Cambridge will undertake an ambitious programme to enhance transport capacity in the area. This capacity is needed along key strategic corridors to and from the city (particularly along those corridors where significant new housing or employment growth is planned) as well as within the built up area of the city. Development of the sustainable transport network will need to strengthen the employment hubs and high tech clusters in Greater Cambridge by making movement between them more straightforward, efficient and convenient.

The backbone of the proposed strategy is a transport network to link areas of population and employment within the City Deal area. There will be new orbital bus routes around Cambridge and new high quality public transport links into Cambridge on key corridors, connecting with major employment centres. There will be a comprehensive network of pedestrian and cycle routes within Cambridge and the main radial routes will have high quality bus priority measures.

This will transform connectivity within and beyond the City Deal area, and will allow significant increases in bus and cycle use, particularly within Cambridge, that will maximise the capacity for movement, particularly within the historic core. This strategy supports carbon objectives and promotes high quality of life for local communities by minimising the environmental impact of transport whilst promoting the ability for the area to grow.

Greater Cambridge City Deal area – housing and business growth areas

Assurance framework

Greater Cambridge has developed an assurance framework which establishes the responsibilities, processes and principles that will underpin delivery of the City Deal transport schemes. By adopting this framework, Greater Cambridge will ensure that schemes that offer maximum benefits and value for money are prioritised for investment. The Greater Cambridge authorities will prioritise projects that will deliver against four key strategic objectives:

- to nurture the conditions necessary to enable the potential of Greater Cambridge to create and retain the international high-tech businesses of the future;
- to better target investment to the needs of the Greater Cambridge economy by ensuring those decisions are informed by the needs of businesses and other key stakeholders such as the universities;
- to markedly improve connectivity and networks between clusters and labour markets so that the right conditions are in place to drive further growth;

- to attract and retain more skilled people by investing in transport and housing whilst maintaining a good quality of life, in turn allowing a long-term increase in jobs emerging from the internationally competitive clusters and more university spin-outs.

The selected schemes will be assessed to ensure they deliver value for money (where the economic benefits of the scheme exceed the costs of investment and maintenance), contribute to City Deal, Local Plan and Local Enterprise Partnership objectives and can be delivered on time and to budget. Greater Cambridge will use the Department for Transport's Early Assessment and Sifting Tool methodology to support the prioritisation of schemes.

Planning for development

Greater Cambridge partners recognise that an appropriate mix of housing is vital to economic growth. The area's economic success and high quality of life have made it an attractive place to live and work. However, the shortage of available, and affordable, housing within a reasonable distance of key employment centres has driven an unsustainable increase in house prices, which in turn affects the recruitment and retention of talented employees. Average house prices in Cambridge have increased 50% in the last 8 years are now 9.2 times average salary compared to 6.7 for England.[2] Housing waiting lists across the City Deal area exceed 11,000 people. Population growth in Cambridgeshire from the 2001 census to 2011 was faster than in any other English county.[3] The City Deal will enable further economic growth by enabling and connecting housing growth.

Greater Cambridge partners have long recognised the need to support housing development, and are planning for this in the draft local plans which are planned for adoption in early 2015. The majority of the housing requirement is being addressed through strategic developments on the southern and north-west fringes of Cambridge, at Cambourne and another new village at Bourn Airfield, and through the new towns of Northstowe and Waterbeach. Northstowe will comprise around 10,000 homes once fully built, with the first phase comprising 1,500 homes and new employment areas. Building on this, through the City Deal Greater Cambridge will undertake a package of measures to support housing delivery and to take advantage of national infrastructure investments such as East West Rail in the area.

A new model for housing investment

Local partners and employers already see lack of access to affordable housing as a real barrier to economic growth in the area – and are committed to taking steps to address this. Greater Cambridge partners are keen to explore a new model for housing investment, a joint venture company that could potentially draw in land holdings from Cambridgeshire County Council and the other Councils, and external investment, including possibly from the University of Cambridge, in order to deliver more affordable housing. The homes would be rented to people employed in the area. This model will be developed through the City Deal.

Supporting housing growth

Investment in infrastructure through Gain Share will enable the acceleration of the delivery of 33,480 houses by 2031. In recognition of this, local partners are committed to an early review of their local plans beginning in 2019 in order to establish what impact the anticipated changed infrastructure landscape and economic growth in the area might have on housing need and other aspects of spatial and transport planning. In addition to this, Greater Cambridge partners commit to the delivery of an additional 1,000 new homes on rural exception sites. This will support the creation, and maintenance of sustainable rural communities in market towns and villages.

[2] Hometrack December 2013

[3] Census 2011

Streamlined planning

Greater Cambridge partners recognise that delivery of these ambitious plans for housing growth requires planning at local level adopting a positive and pro-active approach which is informed by evidence. The two planning authorities have adopted a pro-active and joined up planning approach and are already focused on delivering new development on the fringe sites surrounding Cambridge and at Cambourne and Northstowe, as well as a number of smaller major sites across the districts.

The partner local authorities have established joint working arrangements for the delivery of strategic sites and have recruited teams of appropriately experienced staff and established elected member Joint Development Control Committees dedicated to this task. Best practice approaches such as master-planning, design coding and the use of Planning Performance Agreements are already part of the approach and will be rolled out across the City Deal area.

Greater Cambridge will develop a Planning Charter by December 2014 which will provide the detail of the future Planning Performance Agreement offer to developers. Part of the offer is a joined up, simplified approach from the Council with a Single Point of Contact including streamlined access to the Building Control Service.

The partner authorities have worked closely together on the new local plans and associated transport strategy and have aligned plan-making processes to achieve the benefits of what amounts to a single overarching development, infrastructure and delivery strategy for Cambridge.

Greater Cambridge partners are keen to remain at the cutting edge of good planning practice, and to build on the simplified planning measures and initiatives outlined above as the City Deal evolves, and will formalise this joint working across planning authorities as part of the move towards a combined authority governance structure.

City Deal partners have worked with the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (Defra), and the relevant agencies in the Defra Network (Environment Agency, Natural England and Forestry Commission) in the development of the Local Plans. The Environment Agency has been a key partner assisting the delivery of planning consents at Cambourne, Northstowe, Waterbeach Barracks and Bourn Airfield.

Greater Cambridge City Deal partners will strengthen the good working relationship with Defra and its agencies through taking up their “Network Offer”. Greater Cambridge will continue to engage actively and appropriately with them and other relevant agencies and stakeholders at an early stage in the design and delivery of the City Deal projects so as to ensure environmental constraints and opportunities are taken into account from the outset and to help make Cambridge an attractive and sustainable place to live and work. Local partners are developing a Countywide Supplementary Planning Document on Flood Risk Management and will work with the Defra Network to develop that for adoption in summer 2015.

East-West Rail

The deal acknowledges the importance of the transport links between Cambridge and Oxford. The Government is reinstating the western section of the closed Oxford – Cambridge railway as far east as Bedford, termed East West Rail in conjunction with the East-West Rail Consortium. The first phase of the study looking at the business case and options for the reinstating the section between Bedford and Cambridge is due to report in mid 2014. As part of the City Deal, both Government and Greater Cambridge commit to working together with the East-West Rail Consortium to examine the recommended options and to ensure that the case for the East-West Rail (central section) is as robust as possible, and should it be possible, to work together to accelerate delivery.

Summary

Through the City Deal, Greater Cambridge will:

- plan for 1,000 additional new homes on rural exception sites by 2031;
- enable accelerated delivery of 33,480 new homes already in draft local plans by 2031;
- explore the creation of a joint venture to drive quicker delivery of 2,000 of the affordable new homes envisaged in the draft local plans;
- continue early engagement and positive working with the Defra network in strategic planning, working together to build resilience to extreme weather events and helping to ensure that growth, where possible leads to the enhancement of important habitats and species. City Deal partners will continue to take into account the work of the Local Nature Partnership and Nature Improvement Areas in growth planning – and will build on this by taking up the Defra "Network offer";
- the new Local Plans will, when adopted, have a 16 year time horizon, but the councils will start the review of local plans in 2019 to take into account the anticipated acceleration of housing delivery and to objectively assess housing and business needs at that point and plan accordingly;
- work closely with Government to examine the recommended options and to ensure that the case for the East-West Rail (central section) is as robust as possible, and should it be possible, to work together to accelerate delivery.

A locally responsive skills system that will support Greater Cambridge's growing sectors

To maximise the potential of the area, City Deal partners want to create a locally responsive skills system that will maximise the impact of public investment, forge stronger links between employers and the education system and drive growth across Greater Cambridge. There are three aspects of an integrated programme that will support growth sectors (professional scientific, bio-medical, clean-tech, technology, and advanced manufacturing) and deliver the next wave of the Cambridge Phenomenon:

1) Supporting employers to increase training

Greater Cambridge will create, and locally fund, Local Skills Teams to work with small and medium-sized businesses in the area to support development of their training plans, including a five year funding commitment from the employer. Local skills teams would provide a co-ordination and brokerage role between businesses, training providers and the local community, bringing together providers and businesses to jointly develop training that meets employers' needs and supports growth.

2) Enhancing Information, Advice and Guidance in growth sectors

City Deal partners will build on a successful model established in early 2013 by the Cambridge Area Partnership, in which local businesses aim to provide support for all schools and colleges in the area. Greater Cambridge will accelerate the programme using independent advisors to offer information and advice on careers in growth sectors, creating and locally funding Adult Career Team Advisors. It will work in partnership with the National Careers Service so as to avoid duplication and align services delivered locally through the National Careers Service to provide up-to-date Greater Cambridge-centric careers advice and guidance based on local labour market information about growth sectors, and will raise awareness amongst young people of science, technology, engineering and maths career choices. It will also broker more strategic links between business and the education sector to encourage more business involvement in schools and colleges, and greater uptake of training such as traineeships and Apprenticeships, in line with the Government's objectives.

3) Increasing the uptake of Apprenticeships in growing sectors

By working more closely with employers and young people, City Deal partners will generate increased demand for an additional 420 Level 2 and 3 Apprenticeships over five years in areas aligned to Greater Cambridge's growth sectors. In return, Government commits to ensuring that funding is made available within the skills system over the five years of City Deal from 2014/15, in line with the level of demand brought forward from employers. Usual Adult Skill Budget funding parameters will apply and this additional capacity will be drawn down when demand outstrips existing local budget capacity. Subject to affordability and meeting performance and quality thresholds, additional funding will be available to support increases in 16-23 year old Apprenticeships through the growth process.

Through the City Deal, partners commit to greater alignment of learner demand with employer need, making the skills system more responsive locally:

- delivering 1,556 apprenticeships aligned to local growth sectors; 420 of which are additional;

- increasing employer awareness of training opportunities and engaging with schools and colleges;
- supporting local growth in Small and Medium Sized Enterprises and larger employers in growth sectors; and
- supporting industries linked to the central government's Industrial Strategy.

Leadership and Governance

All of the elements of the Greater Cambridge City Deal have been designed with input from Greater Cambridge, Greater Peterborough Enterprise Partnership and key stakeholders such as the University of Cambridge. The Deal is underpinned by a commitment to deliver through a collaborative governance framework featuring an Executive Board bringing together the Greater Cambridge City Deal partners (Cambridge City council, Cambridgeshire County council, South Cambridgeshire district council, the Greater Cambridge, Greater Peterborough Enterprise Partnership and the University of Cambridge), and a wider Assembly.

City Deal partners recognise that an effective and efficient governance structure is key to the delivery of the infrastructure programme and to planning effectively for future growth. The City Deal partners have a strong history of working closely together – and now look to formalise those roles and responsibilities through strengthened governance arrangements through the creation of an Executive Board.

The Executive Board will provide a coordinated approach to the overall strategic vision and necessary skills and bring together expertise to assess project viability and to administer the necessary funds.

Greater Cambridge partners have proposed forming a combined authority to co-ordinate key planning and transport functions. A combined authority is a corporate structure with a statutory underpinning – designed to provide strong governance and accountability over an area's natural economic footprint. They are voluntary arrangements, where the relevant local authorities enter into partnership in order to collaborate more closely to support economic development, including through the delegation of existing statutory powers from partner bodies into the new authority. The principle benefits of entering into a combined authority are to provide:

- stronger and more coordinated governance and accountability;
- improved long-term strategic, binding decision making;
- improved coordination and delivery of transport and economic development plans and projects; and
- a clear "voice" of the area for Government and investors.

In order for a combined authority to be created over this area, the legislation governing combined authorities will need to be amended. The Department for Communities and Local Government is currently considering what changes need to be made to the relevant legislation in order to make it easier for local partners to form these kinds of statutory and legally-binding governance structures to drive growth.

Greater Cambridge commits to explore the creation of a combined authority, subject to amendment of the relevant legislation.

In the interim, the Greater Cambridge authorities will set up a joint committee in order to drive greater coordination and closer working, and to deliver the City Deal. Whilst this is being established, the Leaders of the three local authorities will continue to work with colleagues from the Greater Cambridge Greater Peterborough Enterprise Partnership and Cambridge University as a Shadow Board, to ensure that the committee is established and the work to deliver the programme can commence as soon as possible.

Once the Joint Statutory Committee is established it is intended that it will perform all the functions envisaged for the Executive Board.

The Greater Cambridge partners envisage a five person Executive Board, supported by a twelve person "Assembly" comprising a mix of elected members and wider stakeholders. The Assembly would perform a scrutiny-type function, holding the Executive Board to account. In the Executive Board, decision-making would be by consensus underpinned by a memorandum of understanding. The local authority representatives would be able to vote, with a commitment to consider advice from the Local Enterprise Partnership and the University of Cambridge.

It is envisaged that the membership of the Executive Board will comprise the leaders or the nominated representative of Cambridge City Council, Cambridgeshire County Council, South Cambridgeshire District Council, one the Pro-Vice Chancellors of the University of Cambridge, and the Chair of the Greater Cambridge Greater Peterborough Local Enterprise Partnership or their nominated representatives.

Including the Local Enterprise Partnership as a member of the Executive Board, will ensure close alignment between the objectives and plans of the City Deal and the Enterprise Partnership. Officers and members of the authorities will also maintain close liaison with the Greater Cambridge Greater Peterborough Enterprise Partnership to encourage that alignment.

It is expected that there would be joint officer groups and joint member bodies taking forward much of the detailed work commissioned by the Executive Board – a number of joint working arrangements and committees already exist, and Greater Cambridge will review these to ensure that what exists is necessary and sufficient, with an intention to streamline wherever possible.

Once a Combined Authority is established it will be legally and financially independent and accountable. Prior to that, Cambridgeshire County Council is likely to perform the accountable body function.

The City Deal partners are committed to delivering the ambition expressed in the City Deal. In addition, the local authorities are already doing much to review and reform the public services they provide in order to deliver more efficient, effective and co-ordinated services across the county.

Summary of Commitments

Infrastructure Investment fund and Gain Share

Greater Cambridge Commitments	Central Government Commitments
• Pool local resources to form infrastructure investment fund; • Invest in the schemes that deliver the greatest economic impact in line with the assurance framework; • Commission an independent assessment of the economic benefits and economic impact of the first tranche of transport investments.	• Provide £100m in grant funding to support the infrastructure fund from 2015/16 to 2019/20; • Subject to an independent review, provide up to £400m of additional funding to support infrastructure investment.

Planning for development

Greater Cambridge Commitments	Central Government Commitments
• Accelerate the delivery of 33,480 planned houses by 2031 across the City Deal area; • Deliver an additional 1,000 units on rural exception sites; • Build on the existing early engagement and positive working with the Defra network in strategic planning by taking up their "Network Offer", working together to build resilience to extreme weather events and helping to ensure that growth, where possible leads to enhancement of important habits and species. City Deal partners will also take into account the work of Local Nature Partnership and Nature Improvement Areas in growth planning; • The local authorities will work with the Government Property Unit and ensure that available data on their assets is available to be utilised in the most effective way by Summer 2014; • Share expertise and accumulated experience to support project/programme delivery in a cost-effective and lean way across Greater Cambridge, building on the joint working arrangements and joint committees already in	• The Defra network will work with Cambridge to find solutions where there are environmental constraints to growth and to advise on opportunities for environmental gains which are achievable with local growth; • To work closely with Greater Cambridge to ensure that the case for the East-West Rail (central section) is as robust as possible and to examine the options for delivery, and should it be possible, to work together to accelerate delivery.

place; • To work closely with Government and the East-West Rail Consortium to ensure that the case for the East-West Rail (central section) is as robust as possible and to examine the options for delivery, and should it be possible, to work together to accelerate delivery.

The locally responsive skills system

Greater Cambridge Commitments	Central Government Commitments
• Create locally-funded local skills teams to work with small and medium-sized businesses in the area to develop training plans and to act as co-ordinators to ensure training provision aligns with employer need; • Establish skills plan/ action plan for each of the priority sectors including identifying the Apprenticeships framework offer; • Create locally-funded Adult careers teams to enhance the delivery of information, advice and guidance in growth sectors – based on local labour market intelligence provision and working with local businesses; • Develop local labour market intelligence to inform the provision of information, advice and guidance for young people, providers, parents and employers; • To work closely with the National Careers Service and schools careers advisers to enable a localised careers offer and ensure that this complements the National Careers Service local offer.	• That Government commits to ensuring that funding, within Adult Skills Budget parameters, is made available as needed to meet additional demand within the skills system over the five years of city deal from 2014/15 to support the growth in provision of Apprenticeships (for 16-23 year olds) brought forward by city deal partners: 420 Apprenticeships over five years in growth sectors; • The National Careers Service commits to working with Greater Cambridge to align local activity through the contracted service offer.

Smart Cambridge

Smart Cambridge is exploring how data, innovative technology and better connectivity can be used to transform the way people live, work and travel in the Greater Cambridge area and beyond.

The pioneering programme, set up by the Greater Cambridge City Deal, is harnessing emerging technologies to improve the economic strength and sustainability of the area.

Local councils, technology businesses, university researchers and partner organisations are working together to find smart ways to tackle city challenges such as transport, air quality, energy and health care.

The work is supported by the Connecting Cambridgeshire partnership programme, which is improving the county's digital infrastructure with better broadband, free public WiFi and wider mobile coverage.

Who is involved?

Smart Cambridge is overseen by a Project Board and an Advisory Group has been formed to steer the work and give technical guidance. The programme is working with a wide range of cutting edge technology businesses and is keen to collaborate with anyone who can contribute.

Greater Cambridge City Deal partnership includes: Cambridgeshire County Council, Cambridge City Council, South Cambridgeshire District Council, University of Cambridge and Greater Cambridge and Greater Peterborough Local Enterprise Partnership.

Smart Cambridge Advisory group includes: ARM, Anglia Ruskin University, BT, Cambridge Network, CCS, University of Cambridge Computing Laboratory, Information Services and Engineering Departments, Cambridge Cleantech – Smart Cities SIG, Microsoft, Redgate, Thingful, TTP and others.

The Greater Cambridge City Deal is investing £300,000 in the Smart Cambridge programme to develop a smart city management platform.

Find out more about smart transport and other projects as they evolve, using the contacts on the back page.

What is a smart city?

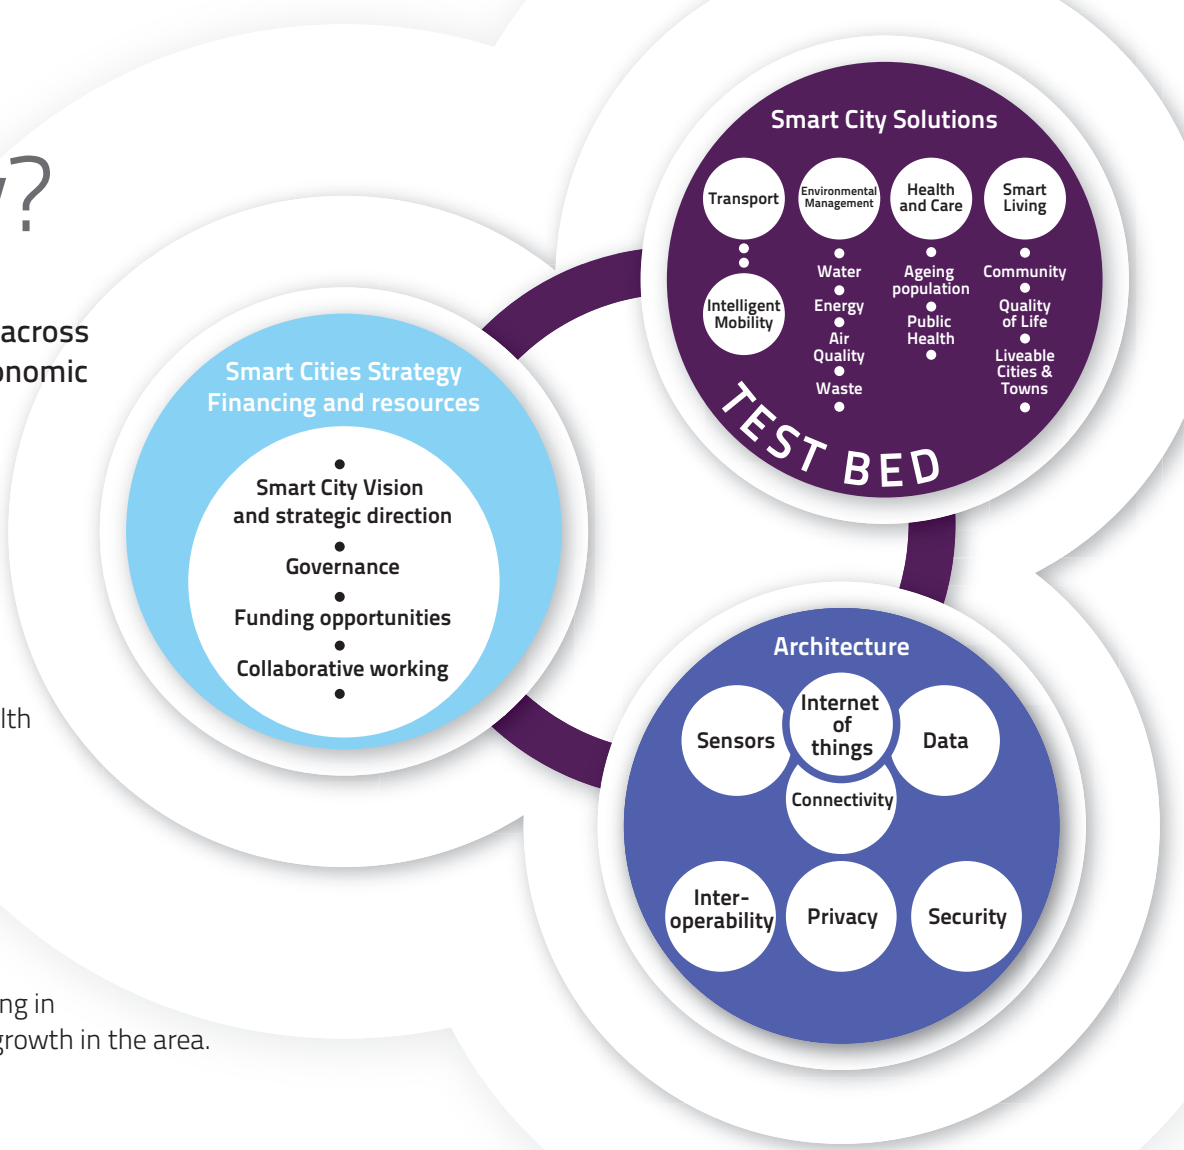

Digital technology underpins almost every aspect of modern living across work, travel leisure and health, and increasingly impacts on the economic strength, sustainability and quality of life of our communities.

Smart cities technology builds on this, using digital connectivity, data and sensors in innovative ways to address city challenges in four key areas:

- Transport: making travel easier, reducing congestion, and exploring intelligent mobility
- Environment: managing our water, energy, air quality and waste
- Healthcare: catering for an ageing population and providing public health
- Smart living: improving the quality of life for communities in and around the city.

Smart Cambridge aims to make Greater Cambridge a 'smart city' by providing the infrastructure needed to collect and analyse data that can be used to develop solutions to some of the city's challenges.

The work supports the wider economic impact of the City Deal, which is investing in transport infrastructure, housing and skills to facilitate sustainable economic growth in the area.

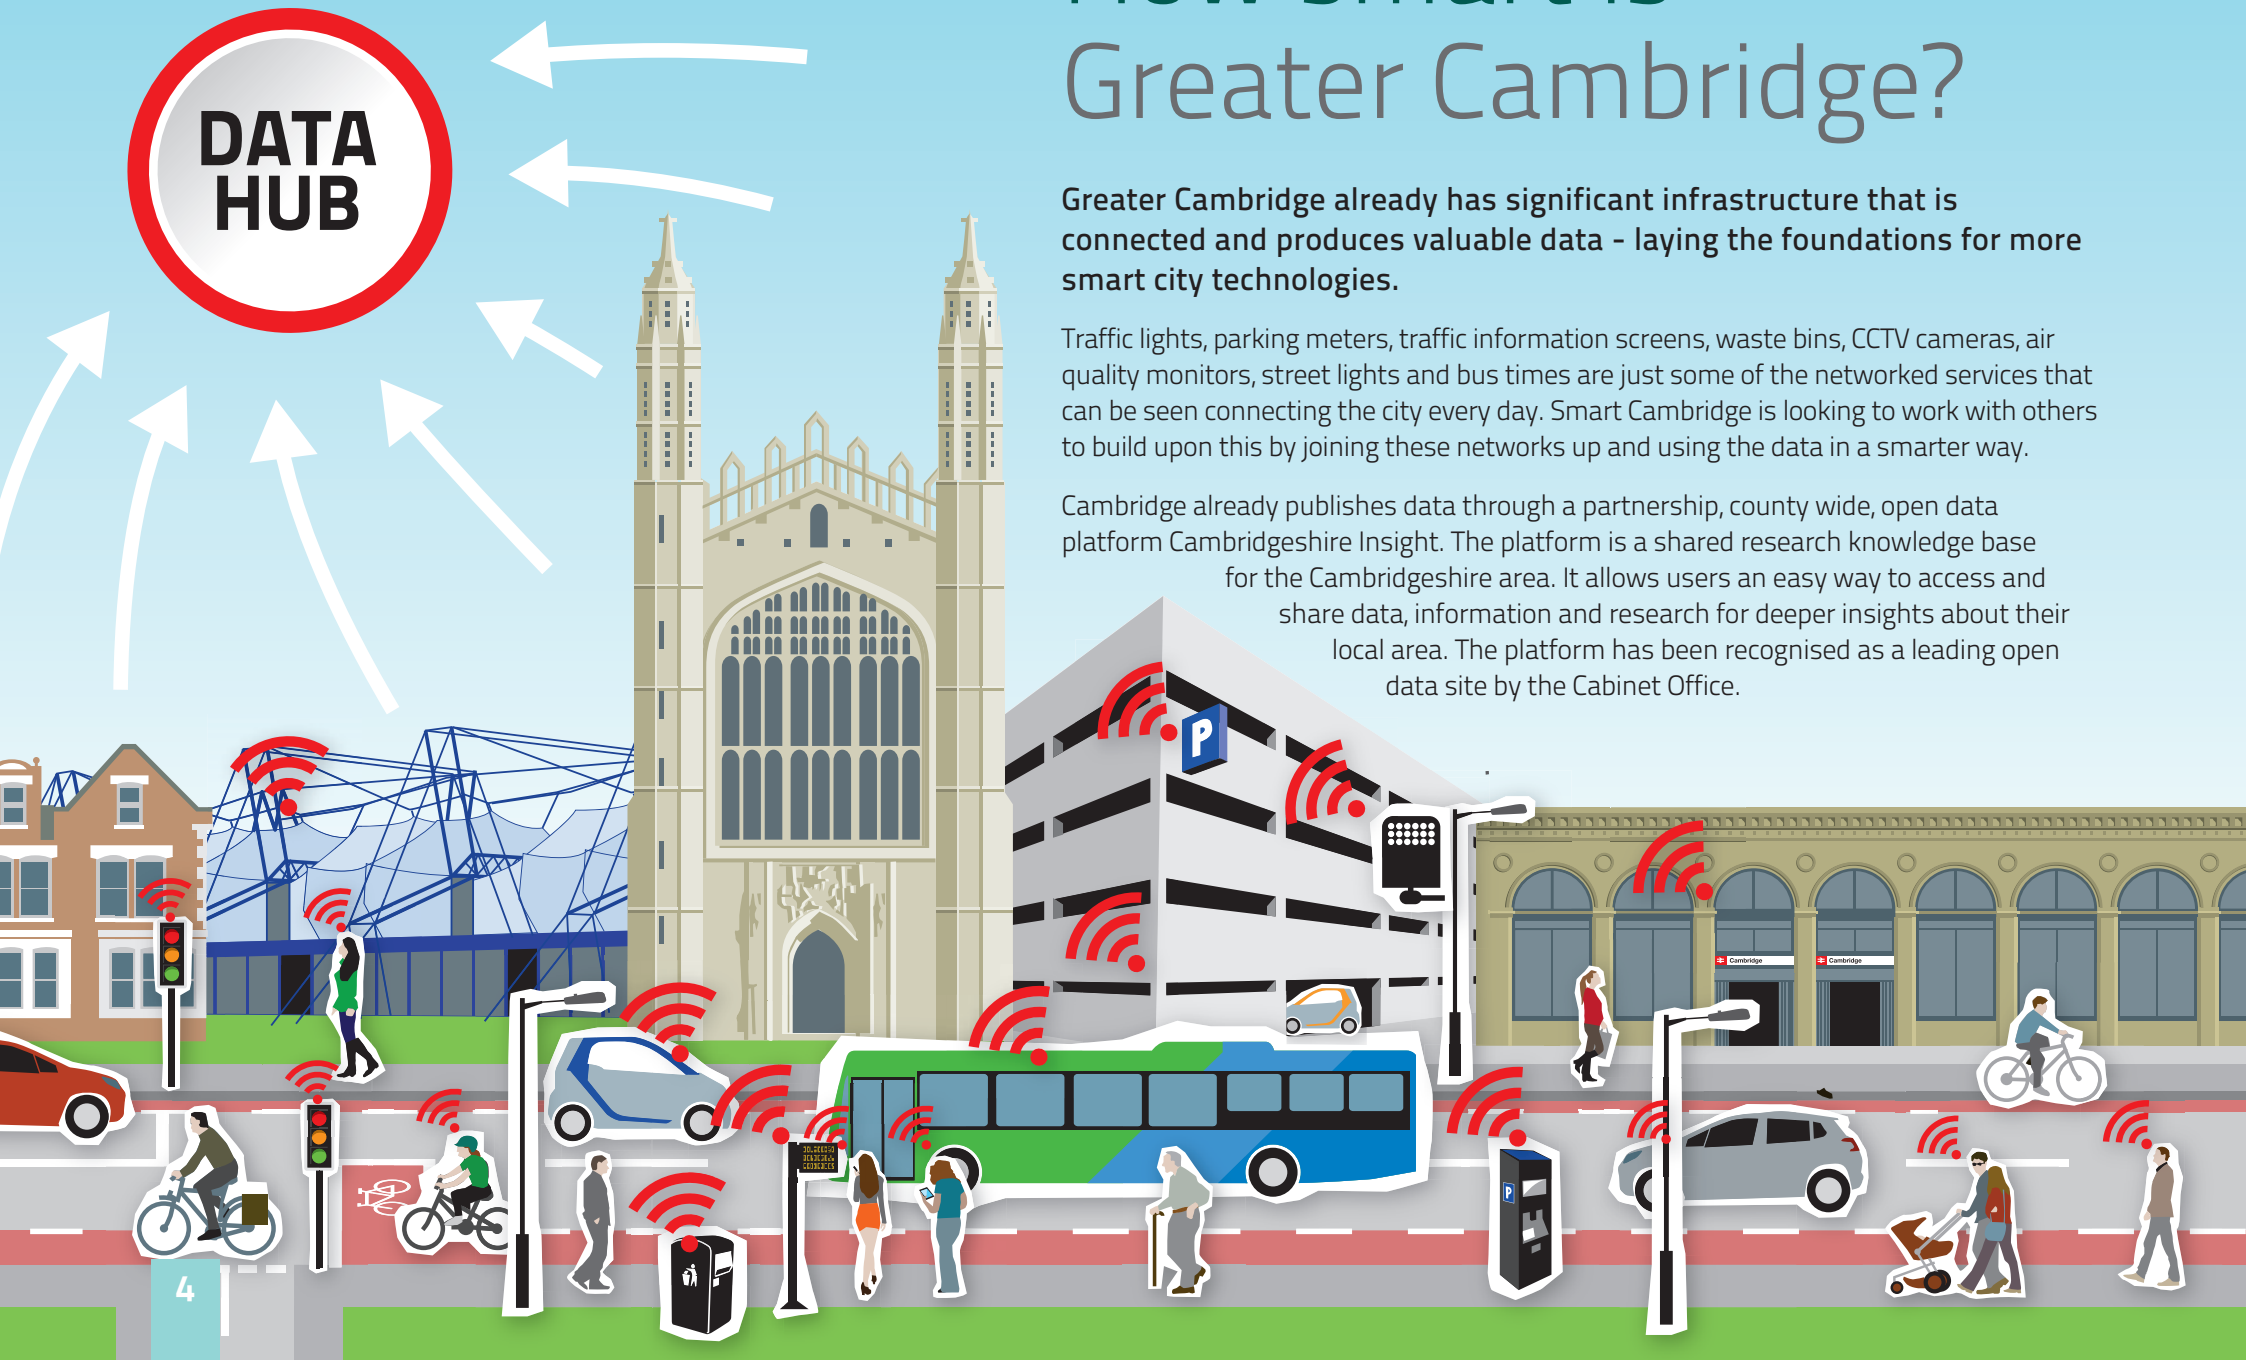

> "Cambridge is a city of considerable magic. We are determined to use smart technologies, better connectivity and smart engineering to tackle transport and other city challenges. We can achieve so much more through our partnership with universities and our world-leading technology clusters"
> Lewis Herbert, Chair of Greater Cambridge City Deal Executive Board.

How smart is Greater Cambridge?

Greater Cambridge already has significant infrastructure that is connected and produces valuable data - laying the foundations for more smart city technologies.

Traffic lights, parking meters, traffic information screens, waste bins, CCTV cameras, air quality monitors, street lights and bus times are just some of the networked services that can be seen connecting the city every day. Smart Cambridge is looking to work with others to build upon this by joining these networks up and using the data in a smarter way.

Cambridge already publishes data through a partnership, county wide, open data platform Cambridgeshire Insight. The platform is a shared research knowledge base for the Cambridgeshire area. It allows users an easy way to access and share data, information and research for deeper insights about their local area. The platform has been recognised as a leading open data site by the Cabinet Office.

What does it mean for residents?

'Smart city' innovations are designed to improve the experience of all citizens living, working and travelling in and around the city - and also to engage them in the process.

Digital screens to guide visitors arriving at Cambridge station, better travel planning tools plotting the best transport options, and improved real time bus updates are just some of the evolving practical applications that are being developed under the Smart Cambridge programme to make journeys smoother.

And there's much more to come as Smart Cambridge is also exploring smart ways to help to reduce congestion, improve air quality and deliver health care.

Digital screens will help travellers plan their journeys

Connecting people

Less visible, but just as vital, is the free Wifi now available in public buildings and open spaces in and around the city with Government funding and the support of the University of Cambridge.

Connecting Cambridgeshire's roll-out of high speed fibre broadband access to over 100,000 homes and businesses that could not get it otherwise has seen record take-up, allowing people to work, socialise and access public services more flexibly. The programme will look to further involve citizens in helping to develop citizen centric solutions to some of the challenges Cambridge faces.

Greater Cambridge Smart City Management Platform

Low Power Long Range Network

This is the communication layer that transfers data from sensors to the hub. The technology allows it to cover most of Greater Cambridge.

Glossary

Data Hub
This includes storage for data on either the Cloud or server(s) and software to collate and analyse data.

Platform
A group of technologies that is used as a base on which other applications, processes or technologies are built.

Open Data
Open data is data that anyone can access, use and share.

'Internet of things'
Connection of physical objects to the internet which allows them to exchange information and be more joined up.

Low Power Long Range Network
Usually called a Wide Area Network used for sending small packages of data over a wide area.

Open Standards
Enables different systems to talk to each other and open to all.

What are our next steps?

Smart Cambridge is developing a 'smart city management platform' over the next two years with scope for myriad smart applications.

These include a data network to support 'Internet of Things' technology - allowing products to 'talk' to each other, and a data hub to collate and process data from an array of sensors around the city.

The platform will also allow third-party developers and citizens to use the data to build applications and to be able to analyse and visualise the data. There is an opportunity to use sensors to monitor a range of measures including air quality, traffic, cycle and pedestrian movements.

The combined data can then be used to plan smart solutions including making transport systems more reliable and easier to use.

Much of the technology required is still in development, so Smart Cambridge is looking to collaborate with commercial partners to 'test bed' new solutions. If successful, the technology and applications developed as part of the City Deal could be used more widely to support new communities in Cambridgeshire, including the significant development at Northstowe.

Intelligent Mobility

Smart Cambridge is also paving the way for research into 'intelligent mobility' including:

- gathering better transport data to help model future schemes
- integrated ticketing to make public transport quicker and more attractive to use
- digital 'wayfinding' to help people move around the city more easily
- exploring the potential for autonomous vehicles (driverless cars).

World-class innovation in Cambridge

Some of the world's most innovative engineers and data scientists are living, working and studying in Cambridge and its surrounding areas.

Cambridge ideas change the world and the city has a well-developed network of accelerators, incubators and business networks that can contribute considerable expertise to finding smart city solutions.

- There are over 4,500 knowledge-intensive companies registered within 25 miles of Cambridge
- Cambridge has nearly nine time the number of patents per head of the average of the next nine cities in the UK

Cambridge companies are leading the way in the development of the 'Internet of Things' and Smart Cities, building the chips to power devices, standards such as Hypercat, networks and on the ground solutions to city challenges.

The University of Cambridge is also leading the way in Smart City and the 'Internet of Things' innovation it is looking at how we can use the large amounts of data being collected through its 'Big Data' initiative.

The Centre for Smart Infrastructure and Construction is looking at the innovative application of the latest sensor technologies and data management tools and is working with industry to realise the potential they have to transform our approach to design, construction and management of infrastructure and cities. The engineering department has been involved in developing driverless vehicles for Milton Keynes and elsewhere.

Morning all,

Well we finally got to see the Crick and it is AWESOME. I'll send through a few pics because I don't know how to put them all in a single email.

Monique had the clever idea of going straight to the top - [redacted] We were shown around for about 90min by [redacted], one of the UKs top scientists who has been a colleague since the late 80s.

It was, to my mind, extraordinary in the use of light and creation of functional interdisciplinary space. [redacted]

It's about twice the floor space of STEM. As ever, pics do not do it justice.

[redacted]

Cheers,

Peter

Arriving in Budapest

Arriving by plane at Liszt Ferenc Budapest Airport

The Liszt Ferenc Budapest Airport is located within the boundary of Budapest, 16 km from the City eastwards.

By taxi

Only one official taxi company operates cabs from the airport to the city center, called Főtaxi.

Főtaxi has a desk outside of both terminals, where you can book your taxi. Click here for more information:

The cost of the taxi from the airport to Novotel should be: 6.500 HUF or 22 EUR.

Airport shuttle services:

The miniBUD airport shuttle collect passengers at the airport and takes each of them to their hotel, so this takes a bit longer than taxi. For more information click here: https://www.minibud.hu/en

http://www.bud.hu/english/passengers/access_and_parking/by_airportshuttle

Prices: one way from the airport to the venue: 3900 HUF / 14€

Return ticket (airport-venue): 6900 HUF / 25€

Arriving by train

There are three main railway stations in Budapest: Keleti (Eastern), Nyugati (Western) and Déli (Southern) Railway Stations.

Public transport from Keleti Railway Station

Take metro 2 (red line - direction: Déli pályaudvar) and get off at the next stop at Blaha Lujza tér. The hotel is about 3 minutes walking distance from here. Take the right stairs in the underpass and on street level walk across the tramrails through the passenger crossing.

Public transport from Nyugati Railway Station

Take tram no. 4 (direction: Újbuda - Központ) or 6 (direction: Móricz Zsigmond körtér), and get off at the 4th stop at Blaha Lujza tér. The hotel is about 3 minutes from here. (see the map below).

Public transport from Déli Railway Station

Take metro 2 (red line - direction: Örs vezér tere) and get off at Blaha Lujza tér. The hotel is about 3 minutes walking distance from here. Take the right stairs in the underpass and on street level walk across the tramrails through the passenger crossing.

Arriving by car

Conference participants can park in the BOE parking house next to the hotel, with direct access to the venue. Please use the entrance in Csokonai street.

Prices: 440 HUF/hour /car (ca. € 1,5/hour/car)

5 280 HUF/day/car (ca. € 18/day/car)

Public transport from the airport to the city:

Take bus 200E, go to the final stop Kőbánya-Kispest metro station and change to metro 3 (blue line) and get off at Nyugati pályaudvar. Then take the tram no. 4 or 6, and get off at Blaha Lujza té". The hotel is about 3 minutes from here, on the right side of *Rákóczi ú*t.

Ticket prices:

Single ticket 350 HUF (ca.1,2 €)

Discount package of single tickets (10 pcs): 3000 HUF (ca.10 €)

24 hour travel card 1650 HUF (ca.5.5 €)

72 hour travel card 4150 HUF (ca.13.8 €)

Other possibilities/more information on tickets and cards: http://www.bkk.hu/en/prices/

You can buy tickets in every underground stop, some kiosks, newsagents, and ticket machines.

Public transport in the city

Budapest has a good public transport network. You can easily get from one place to another by tram, metro or bus. You need to use a new ticket every time you get on a bus, tram or metro.

For more information please visit the website of BKK (maps, trip planner, timetables): http://www.bkk.hu/en/tourist-information-about-budapest-public-transport/

3 Overview map

1: Novotel Budapest Centrum (Conference venue + registrations pre-conference day + starting point of guided tours)

2: Akadémia Klub (Welcome reception)

3: Europa Boat (Conference dinner)

3.1 How to reach the different venues

Novotel Budapest Centrum is located in the centre of Budapest on the Pest side*, near Blaha Lujza tér,* which is a major junction for two main roads, the Körút (or krt) and Rákóczi út. Many public transport services stop at Blaha Lujza tér: trams 4 and 6 running in every 3-5 minutes and buses 5, 7, 8E, 110, 112, 178 towards Keleti Railway station and the Danube leave from here. Metro 2 (red line) also stops underground.

Akadémia Klub

Akadémia Klub is located in the building of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences, in the very heart of the city, overlooking the river Danube and Chainbridge (Lánchíd).

From Novotel the easisest to get to Akadémia Klub is by taking metro 2 (red line) from Blaha Lujza tér to the direction of Déli pályaudvar. Get off at Kossuth Lajos tér (3rd stop) and walk south to Széchenyi tér on either next to the river (Széchenyi rkp) or on Akadémia utca.

Europa Boat

Europa Boat can be found on the Buda side of the city, at Szilágyi Dezső tér, near to Batthyány tér. The Boat will be located at the same place, will not move during the dinner, so guests can arrive later or leave earlier if they need to.

From Novotel the easiest to get to Europa Boat is by taking metro 2 (red line) from Blaha Lujza tér to the direction of Déli pályaudvar. Get off at Batthyány tér (4th stop) and walk south on Bem rkp (next to the tram track) following the river until you reach Szilágyi Dezső tér, with a church in the middle. Here you'll see Europa Boat.

Tempus staff will help participants getting to Europe Boat by taking the metro as detailed above – time of leaving the Novotel will be announced at the conference.

4 Practical information

4.1 Internet access during the conference

Wireless internet will be available for all conference participants at Novotel Budapest Centrum. Login and password information can be requested at the hotel reception or at the conference registration desk.

4.2 Time zone

Hungary is in Central European Time zone: UTC/GMT+1 hour.

4.3 Climate

Budapest has a temperate climate with four seasons spanning the whole year. November can be quite cold already with temperature of 5-7 degrees and even snow could be possible. The weather forecast for 20- 22 November is 8-11°C during the day and 5-6°C in the evening, with some possible rain on Sunday.

4.4 Getting around

Public transport

Budapest has a well-developed public transport network. Trams, buses and metros will take you almost anywhere in the city.

Tickets of the BKK are valid for the entire public transport network. A single ticket is valid for one hour for one type of service. So with a single ticket you can hop aboard trams and buses, but if you change to another, you will need to use another ticket. Single tickets can be purchased at the price of 350 HUF from ticket machines or in metro stations or on some bus services from the driver at the price 450 HUF. 24 hour and 72 hour or weekly travel cards are also available.

For more information please visit the website of BKK (ticket prices, maps, trip planner, timetables): http://www.bkk.hu/en/tickets-and-passes/prices/

4.5 Money and currency

The currency in Hungary is Hungarian Forints or HUF or Ft. One EUR is 310 HUF so 1000 HUF is approximately 3 EUR. You can pay in euros at many restaurants, shops and in taxis and shops usually announce their current exchange rate. If you are paying in Forints, there are banknotes for amounts of 500, 1000, 2000, 5000, 10000 and 20000 – some exist in two different colours as new banknotes are being introduced. There are six different coins for Forints: 5, 10, 20, 50, 100 and 200.

Currency can be exchanged at banks and exchange offices available in town, but it may be easier to use the ATMs. Banks are closed on Saturdays and Sundays, but exchange offices at airports, railway stations and major tourist attractions are open seven days a week. Major credit and debit cards are widely accepted though some small hotels and restaurants may only accept cash.

10-15% tips at restaurants are welcome when you are satisfied and happy with the service, unless service has been already included in the bill.

4.6 Languages

Hungarian is a Finno - Ugric language, remotely connected to Finnish. Many people at hotels, restaurants and shops speak English and some people, especially the older generation, speak German.

4.7 Commercial and business hours

Shops are generally open from Monday to Friday from 10am to 6.00 pm – some are open later, especially at department stores and shopping centers. Some supermarkets are open on Sunday as well.

4.8 Communications

The international access code for Hungary is +36. The outgoing code is 00 followed by the relevant country code (e.g. 0033 for France).The area code for Budapest is 1.

4.9 Electricity

The electric current in Hungary is 220-240 V, 50 Hz. Electrical plugs in Hungary need two round prongs. They can be the ungrounded Europlug Type C or the grounded Schuko plug Type E/F.

ACA Annual Conference 2016:

UniverCities. Higher education institutions and their habitat

Budapest, 20 - 22 November 2016

This year's ACA Annual Conference, to be held in the beautiful city of Budapest, bears the title UniverCities. Higher education institutions and their 'habitat'. The event will explore the relationship between universities and colleges and the cities, towns and regions where they are located. The conference is expected to draw an audience of some 300 participants, including central actors and decision-makers from universities and colleges as well as policy-makers and practitioners from government departments, international organisations, non-governmental organisations, municipalities, enterprises and think tanks. As always, we are striving to offer high-quality information, analysis and discussion.

Theme

The theme of the conference is being hotly debated these days. Which 'habitat' do higher education institutions and the knowledge industries require, where do they thrive? In metropolises and megapolises, which attract talent because of the tolerant environment and the advanced technology they provide, as the American urban studies theorist Richard Florida argues? Probably, but is this the only 'environment' in which higher education institutions flourish. What about all these cosy little towns, of the type of Oxbridge, Freiburg or Lund, which are hosts to well- reputed and even world-class universities? And, not to forget, remote or underdeveloped regions with declining demographies or regions undergoing economic transformation, where higher education institutions are being founded as catalysts of regional rejuvenation and growth. In these cases, it is the university or college which is to strengthen the town or region - and not the other way round.

The ACA Annual Conference 2016 will address all of these different 'habitats' – big cities, small towns and remote and challenged regions. In doing so, it will not only explore the relationship between higher education institutions and municipalities, but also of university-enterprise interaction and cooperation between academic institutions and civil society actors in their city, town or region. Speakers will be higher education researchers and representatives, but also business representatives and civil society actors.

Format

The ACA Annual Conference 2016 will take place on 21 and 22 November, and is to be preceded by a social programme and opening reception in the afternoon and evening of 20 November. The conference itself will feature a mix of plenary and parallel sessions. Plenary sessions will include 'classical' presentations, panel discussions and 'debates'. In addition, there will be three interactive parallel sessions which will be repeated once, allowing participants to attend two such dynamic sessions instead of only one. The programme also includes the by now legendary conference dinner.

Tempus Public Foundation

Traditionally, ACA Annual Conferences are organised in cooperation with ACA members and other important local partners. This year, ACA is very proud to co-organise its Annual Conference together with the Tempus Public Foundation (TPF), its Hungarian member organisation. TPF celebrates its 20th anniversary this year and the conference is part of the anniversary festivities.

Speakers

In our choice of speakers we remain very 'conservative'. We invite only speakers who have something to say and who are able to say this well. Presenters at ACA Annual Conferences are chosen exclusively from a small group of internationally reputed experts in higher education research, policy and practice. In the coming weeks, we will present some of these outstanding personalities to you.

Overall, we aim at an event that not only provides useful information, reflection and analysis, but also ample opportunities for discussion, peer learning, and networking.

The conference language is Engli

Arriving in Budapest

Arriving by plane at Liszt Ferenc Budapest Airport

The Liszt Ferenc Budapest Airport is located within the boundary of Budapest, 16 km from the City eastwards.

By taxi

Only one official taxi company operates cabs from the airport to the city center, called Főtaxi.

Főtaxi has a desk outside of both terminals, where you can book your taxi. Click here for more information:

The cost of the taxi from the airport to Novotel should be: 6.500 HUF or 22 EUR.

Airport shuttle services:

The miniBUD airport shuttle collect passengers at the airport and takes each of them to their hotel, so this takes a bit longer than taxi. For more information click here: https://www.minibud.hu/en

http://www.bud.hu/english/passengers/access_and_parking/by_airportshuttle

Prices: one way from the airport to the venue: 3900 HUF / 14€

Return ticket (airport-venue): 6900 HUF / 25€

Arriving by train

There are three main railway stations in Budapest: Keleti (Eastern), Nyugati (Western) and Déli (Southern) Railway Stations.

Public transport from Keleti Railway Station

Take metro 2 (red line - direction: Déli pályaudvar) and get off at the next stop at Blaha Lujza tér. The hotel is about 3 minutes walking distance from here. Take the right stairs in the underpass and on street level walk across the tramrails through the passenger crossing.

Public transport from Nyugati Railway Station

Take tram no. 4 (direction: Újbuda - Központ) or 6 (direction: Móricz Zsigmond körtér), and get off at the 4th stop at Blaha Lujza tér. The hotel is about 3 minutes from here. (see the map below).

Public transport from Déli Railway Station

Take metro 2 (red line - direction: Örs vezér tere) and get off at Blaha Lujza tér. The hotel is about 3 minutes walking distance from here. Take the right stairs in the underpass and on street level walk across the tramrails through the passenger crossing.

Arriving by car

Conference participants can park in the BOE parking house next to the hotel, with direct access to the venue. Please use the entrance in Csokonai street.

Prices: 440 HUF/hour /car (ca. € 1,5/hour/car)

5 280 HUF/day/car (ca. € 18/day/car)

Public transport from the airport to the city:

Take bus 200E, go to the final stop Kőbánya-Kispest metro station and change to metro 3 (blue line) and get off at Nyugati pályaudvar. Then take the tram no. 4 or 6, and get off at Blaha Lujza té". The hotel is about 3 minutes from here, on the right side of *Rákóczi ú*t.

Ticket prices:

Single ticket 350 HUF (ca.1,2 €)

Discount package of single tickets (10 pcs): 3000 HUF (ca.10 €)

24 hour travel card 1650 HUF (ca.5.5 €)

72 hour travel card 4150 HUF (ca.13.8 €)

Other possibilities/more information on tickets and cards: http://www.bkk.hu/en/prices/

You can buy tickets in every underground stop, some kiosks, newsagents, and ticket machines.

Public transport in the city

Budapest has a good public transport network. You can easily get from one place to another by tram, metro or bus. You need to use a new ticket every time you get on a bus, tram or metro.

For more information please visit the website of BKK (maps, trip planner, timetables): http://www.bkk.hu/en/tourist-information-about-budapest-public-transport/

3.1 How to reach the different venues

Novotel Budapest Centrum is located in the centre of Budapest on the Pest side*, near Blaha Lujza tér,* which is a major junction for two main roads, the Körút (or krt) and Rákóczi út. Many public transport services stop at Blaha Lujza tér: trams 4 and 6 running in every 3-5 minutes and buses 5, 7, 8E, 110, 112, 178 towards Keleti Railway station and the Danube leave from here. Metro 2 (red line) also stops underground.

Akadémia Klub

Akadémia Klub is located in the building of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences, in the very heart of the city, overlooking the river Danube and Chainbridge (Lánchíd).

From Novotel the easisest to get to Akadémia Klub is by taking metro 2 (red line) from Blaha Lujza tér to the direction of Déli pályaudvar. Get off at Kossuth Lajos tér (3rd stop) and walk south to Széchenyi tér on either next to the river (Széchenyi rkp) or on Akadémia utca.

Europa Boat

Europa Boat can be found on the Buda side of the city, at Szilágyi Dezső tér, near to Batthyány tér. The Boat will be located at the same place, will not move during the dinner, so guests can arrive later or leave earlier if they need to.

From Novotel the easiest to get to Europa Boat is by taking metro 2 (red line) from Blaha Lujza tér to the direction of Déli pályaudvar. Get off at Batthyány tér (4th stop) and walk south on Bem rkp (next to the tram track) following the river until you reach Szilágyi Dezső tér, with a church in the middle. Here you'll see Europa Boat.

Tempus staff will help participants getting to Europe Boat by taking the metro as detailed above – time of leaving the Novotel will be announced at the conference.

4 Practical information

4.1 Internet access during the conference

Wireless internet will be available for all conference participants at Novotel Budapest Centrum. Login and password information can be requested at the hotel reception or at the conference registration desk.

4.2 Time zone

Hungary is in Central European Time zone: UTC/GMT+1 hour.

4.3 Climate

Budapest has a temperate climate with four seasons spanning the whole year. November can be quite cold already with temperature of 5-7 degrees and even snow could be possible. The weather forecast for 20- 22 November is 8-11°C during the day and 5-6°C in the evening, with some possible rain on Sunday.

4.4 Getting around

Public transport

Budapest has a well-developed public transport network. Trams, buses and metros will take you almost anywhere in the city.

Tickets of the BKK are valid for the entire public transport network. A single ticket is valid for one hour for one type of service. So with a single ticket you can hop aboard trams and buses, but if you change to another, you will need to use another ticket. Single tickets can be purchased at the price of 350 HUF from ticket machines or in metro stations or on some bus services from the driver at the price 450 HUF. 24 hour and 72 hour or weekly travel cards are also available.

For more information please visit the website of BKK (ticket prices, maps, trip planner, timetables): http://www.bkk.hu/en/tickets-and-passes/prices/

4.5 Money and currency

The currency in Hungary is Hungarian Forints or HUF or Ft. One EUR is 310 HUF so 1000 HUF is approximately 3 EUR. You can pay in euros at many restaurants, shops and in taxis and shops usually announce their current exchange rate. If you are paying in Forints, there are banknotes for amounts of 500, 1000, 2000, 5000, 10000 and 20000 – some exist in two different colours as new banknotes are being introduced. There are six different coins for Forints: 5, 10, 20, 50, 100 and 200.

Currency can be exchanged at banks and exchange offices available in town, but it may be easier to use the ATMs. Banks are closed on Saturdays and Sundays, but exchange offices at airports, railway stations and major tourist attractions are open seven days a week. Major credit and debit cards are widely accepted though some small hotels and restaurants may only accept cash.

10-15% tips at restaurants are welcome when you are satisfied and happy with the service, unless service has been already included in the bill.

4.6 Languages

Hungarian is a Finno - Ugric language, remotely connected to Finnish. Many people at hotels, restaurants and shops speak English and some people, especially the older generation, speak German.

4.7 Commercial and business hours

Shops are generally open from Monday to Friday from 10am to 6.00 pm – some are open later, especially at department stores and shopping centers. Some supermarkets are open on Sunday as well.

4.8 Communications

The international access code for Hungary is +36. The outgoing code is 00 followed by the relevant country code (e.g. 0033 for France).The area code for Budapest is 1.

4.9 Electricity

The electric current in Hungary is 220-240 V, 50 Hz. Electrical plugs in Hungary need two round prongs. They can be the ungrounded Europlug Type C or the grounded Schuko plug Type E/F.

ACA Annual Conference 2016:

UniverCities. Higher education institutions and their habitat

Budapest, 20 - 22 November 2016

This year's ACA Annual Conference, to be held in the beautiful city of Budapest, bears the title UniverCities. Higher education institutions and their 'habitat'. The event will explore the relationship between universities and colleges and the cities, towns and regions where they are located. The conference is expected to draw an audience of some 300 participants, including central actors and decision-makers from universities and colleges as well as policy-makers and practitioners from government departments, international organisations, non-governmental organisations, municipalities, enterprises and think tanks. As always, we are striving to offer high-quality information, analysis and discussion.

Theme

The theme of the conference is being hotly debated these days. Which 'habitat' do higher education institutions and the knowledge industries require, where do they thrive? In metropolises and megapolises, which attract talent because of the tolerant environment and the advanced technology they provide, as the American urban studies theorist Richard Florida argues? Probably, but is this the only 'environment' in which higher education institutions flourish. What about all these cosy little towns, of the type of Oxbridge, Freiburg or Lund, which are hosts to well- reputed and even world-class universities? And, not to forget, remote or underdeveloped regions with declining demographies or regions undergoing economic transformation, where higher education institutions are being founded as catalysts of regional rejuvenation and growth. In these cases, it is the university or college which is to strengthen the town or region - and not the other way round.

The ACA Annual Conference 2016 will address all of these different 'habitats' – big cities, small towns and remote and challenged regions. In doing so, it will not only explore the relationship between higher education institutions and municipalities, but also of university-enterprise interaction and cooperation between academic institutions and civil society actors in their city, town or region. Speakers will be higher education researchers and representatives, but also business representatives and civil society actors.

Format

The ACA Annual Conference 2016 will take place on 21 and 22 November, and is to be preceded by a social programme and opening reception in the afternoon and evening of 20 November. The conference itself will feature a mix of plenary and parallel sessions. Plenary sessions will include 'classical' presentations, panel discussions and 'debates'. In addition, there will be three interactive parallel sessions which will be repeated once, allowing participants to attend two such dynamic sessions instead of only one. The programme also includes the by now legendary conference dinner.

Tempus Public Foundation

Traditionally, ACA Annual Conferences are organised in cooperation with ACA members and other important local partners. This year, ACA is very proud to co-organise its Annual Conference together with the Tempus Public Foundation (TPF), its Hungarian member organisation. TPF celebrates its 20th anniversary this year and the conference is part of the anniversary festivities.

Speakers

In our choice of speakers we remain very 'conservative'. We invite only speakers who have something to say and who are able to say this well. Presenters at ACA Annual Conferences are chosen exclusively from a small group of internationally reputed experts in higher education research, policy and practice. In the coming weeks, we will present some of these outstanding personalities to you.

Overall, we aim at an event that not only provides useful information, reflection and analysis, but also ample opportunities for discussion, peer learning, and networking.

Arthur Mettinger

Arthur Mettinger has his academic background in English linguistics, holding the position of associate professor at the University of Vienna's Department of English and American Studies. From 1999 to 2011 he served as the University of Vienna's Vice Rector for Academic and International Affairs, in this capacity driving the modernisation agenda in one of Europe's oldest Higher Education institutions: more than 100 degree programmes were re-conceptualised in the framework of the Bologna Process, new learning management tools and organisational structures were introduced, and a coherent institutional internationalisation strategy and a language centre were established. Moreover, between 2004 and 2007 he was President of the UNICA Network of Universities in Capital Cities of Europe. In 2012 Arthur Mettinger was elected Rector of FH Campus Wien University of Applied Sciences. Over the past 20 years he has been involved in many projects on the European level concerning curriculum development (including JD and Erasmus Mundus), ECTS and ECVET, and the training of HE reform and Bologna experts. In Austria he has been instrumental in the reform of teacher education. In 2015 Arthur Mettinger contracted complete paraplegia, had to undergo hospital treatment and to take leave of absence from his duties as rector. Currently, he is fighting his way back into academic leadership, serving as Chief Liaison for Academic Cooperation at FH Campus Wien UAS

Gábor Bojár

Gábor Bojár (67) was one of the very few entrepreneurs of Central-Eastern Europe to succeed in global business already in the years of state-socialism. With a degree in physics, obtained at the Eötvös Loránd University in 1973, he founded his own software development firm in 1982. Graphisoft grew rapidly, listed on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange in 1998, and by today became the top software vendor of the sector globally. Claiming the most prestigious awards of the trade, Graphisoft's leading product, ArchiCAD® is used by hundreds of thousands of architects all over the world.
In 1996, Mr. Bojár founded a real-estate development company to re-cultivate a run down industrial site on the bank of the river Danube and to turn it into a state-of-the art science park, accommodating the research units of corporations including Microsoft, SAP, Apple Servier and others, becoming Budapest's prime revitalization project and the recipient of several awards and recognitions. In 2007 Mr Bojár established a highly competitive school of information technology for an international student body pursuing under- and postgraduate degrees. Aquincum Institute of Technology is meant to be an example of social entrepreneurship demonstrating the viability of a self-sustaining investment in higher education.

Mr. Bojár was distinguished by numerous national and international awards for scientific and business excellence, including Szechenyi Prize (1997), Order of Merit (2002) and Ernst & Young's Entrepreneur of the Year in 2006, and an invited speaker of several prestigious events including the Davos World Economic Forum. Besides his other posts in the boards of various organizations, including EFER, and he is a member of the Governing Board of the European Institute of Innovation and Technology.

Bernd Kortmann

Bernd Kortmann is Full Professor of English Language and Linguistics at the University of Freiburg, Germany, and since October 2013 Executive Director of FRIAS, the Freiburg Institute for Advanced Studies. He served as Dean of the Philological Faculty from 1997 to 1999 and 2010 to 2014, and has been the Chairman of the Board of the Language Teaching Centre ever since its foundation in 2003. Since 2012 he has been a member of the selection panel of the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation Fellowships. In the field of English linguistics, Bernd Kortmann has widely and extensively published and is, among other things, the editor of a topranked international journal and two international book series. He holds an Honorary Doctorate from the University of Eastern Finland and is an elected member of the Academia Europaea.

Eva Werner

Eva Werner, who holds a degree from the University of Vienna in languages, studied also in France and Canada, is Rector of the IMC University of Applied Sciences Krems. In this capacity, she is responsible for the development as well as the quality assurance of the degree programs offered at the IMC Krems. She is furthermore, among others, a member of the Steering Board of the Association of the Universities of Applied Sciences Austria, a member of several working groups of the Austrian University Conference, a member of the Board of Directors and the assessment group of Tourism and Hospitality Education (Center of Excellence, Australia), international expert in the ECA project Certificate for Quality in Internationalization (CeQuInt), chair of the International Committee of the Association of Austrian Universities of Applied Sciences, as well as peer in international accreditation and certification procedures. Eva Werner was an Austrian Bologna Expert and also actively contributed to the implementation of the Bologna process in other countries. She is regarded as an expert in curriculum development, quality assurance and the development of internationalization.

Outi Snellman

Outi Snellman, Vice-president, Organization, University of the Arctic and Director of International Relations, University of Lapland, Finland. Among many northern projects, she was the European leader of the first circumpolar student mobility program, the North Consortium, funded by EU, as early as 1994-1997. As Secretary General of CUA she led the feasibility study for the University of the Arctic and has been the head of the UArctic International Secretariat since its establishment. In the recent years she has been highly active in enhancing higher education collaboration between the circumpolar north and non-Arctic countries like China, Korea and Japan as well as different central European countries in the context of UArctic's Thematic Networks. As a part of her interest in Arctic cooperation, she has engaged in regional organizations like the Winter Cities Association and the Northern Forum

Katalin Erdős

Katalin Erdős is Research Fellow at the MTA-PTE Innovation and Economic Growth Research Group and Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Business and Economics of the University of Pécs. Her research focuses on the role of universities in regional social and economic development. She tries to explore various aspects of the entrepreneurial turn of universities, ranging from entrepreneurial education to spin-offs. Also her dissertation and many recent international publications dealt with the latter topic. She was a visiting researcher at outstanding institutions like University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, London School of Economics and Bocconi University. She was involved in many projects related to regional development and academic entrepreneurship. She also serves as a mentor at the Simonyi Business and Economic Development Center. Her teaching courses range from BA to PhD level and include subjects related to innovation and technological change, environmental economics, introduction to economics and microeconomics. She is a member of the Triple-Helix Association, the Hungarian Regional Science Association, and of the Working Committee for Spatial- and Settlement Sciences of the Pécs Academic Committee of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences.

Andrea Hofer

Andrea-Rosalinde HOFER, German national, has been working for the OECD since 2004 in the Trento Centre for Local Development of the LEED programme. Andrea manages several initiatives on promoting entrepreneurship through the formal education system. Part of this is HEInnovate (www.heinnovate.eu), a joint initiative with the European Commission (DG Education and Culture) to promote innovation in higher education across Europe through institutional development around teaching and learning, knowledge exchange and entrepreneurship. She holds Master degrees in agricultural engineering, political science, and a PhD on the role of external knowledge providers in the innovation processes of entrepreneurial firms.

Daniel Barcza

Associate professor, Vice-Rector of Strategy Daniel Barcza is an associate professor, designer and sustainability consultant, currently the Vice-Rector of Strategy at Moholy-Nagy University of Art and Design Budapest, Hungary (MOME). He is in charge of the planning process and development program of the university's new Creative Innovation Center and Technology Park and other new academic facilities. Subject: Tasmanians coming to Bristol updated information.

Good morning Richard

An update on the group of Tasmanians travelling to Bristol on Sunday and Monday 27 & 28 November 2016.

We are staying at the Marriott Bristol Royal on Sunday night so we are able to meet with you as early as you are able on the Monday morning, I hope that remains convenient for you as we are looking forward to seeing Bristol's urban revitalisation projects.

Our party has increased to include a member of the University of Tasmania executive team, Corey Peterson, who is part of the delegation from Hobart that has attended the UniverCities conference in Budapest

Our flight back to Australia leaves from Heathrow at 8:45pm on Monday the 28 November, so we will need to catch a train that will take us to the airport in the early afternoon, your assistance in recommending the most appropriate train to catch would be appreciated.

Thank you for your assistance to date.

If you or any of your team would like to meet for drinks or a meal on the Sunday afternoon or evening please let me know as we would enjoy meeting you socially in advance of Monday's tour.

Kind regards

George

Good morning and thank you very much in advance. Given I am an add-on to the City of Hobart delegation, I will be joining them for their tour of the city revitalisation at some point in the morning. So how about we meet at 0745 on campus or at your office. We are staying at the Marriot Bristol Royal (not sure whose budget this is coming out of!).
Cheers,
Corey

Hi Martin,

[redacted] suggested I contact you in relation to an upcoming visit a group of us is making to the UK.

I am travelling to the UniverCities Conference in Budapest from 20-22 November with a delegation from the University of Tasmania and our state capital Hobart, Tasmania. As part of this trip, we are visiting Freiburg, Cambridge and Bristol. I've just been added to the Bristol leg, hence I am contacting you hoping you or members of your team would have some time to meet with me on the morning of 28 November?

I am particularly interested in the role your team and the University of Bristol played in the European Green Capital recognition through the Bristol Green Capital Partnership and how your Estates area integrates with the ESD Project (including the Bristol Futures work). I know, a lot to go through in a short time, but even just to touch on some of the approaches, challenges and successes would be greatly appreciated. I also very much enjoy 'checking out' other campuses and how they integrate physically into their city/community.

With much appreciation in advance for whatever information or assistance you are able to offer at relatively short notice.

Cheers,
Corey

Professor David Forrester

Chair of Silviculture, University of Freiburg

Professor Forrester's current research focus is how the interactions between different tree species in mixed-species forests change along spatial and temporal gradients in resource availability or climate, and how these interactions, as well as stand structure, influence ecosystem processes relating to carbon, water and nutrient cycles. He is also interested in how silvicultural treatments or natural disturbances affect these processes and species interactions.

Freiburg, 18th of November 2016

Program for the delegation from Tasmania on the 23rd of Nov.2016

Pos.	Contents	Timetable
	Freiburg
1.	Introduction: Sustainable development in Freiburg The City of Freiburg is known internationally for its political and civic commitment to sustainable development and the environment. This introductory lecture will deal with the use of renewable energies, the development of a city of close proximity, the expansion of public transportation and cycling networks, and the Climate Action Plan for the city.	9:00-10:30
2.	Footpath/walk	10:30-10:45
3.	Date at university of Freiburg	11:00-12:00
4.	Refurbishment of the University library The building of Freiburg's University library is getting refurbished with a budget of nearly 50 Million Euros. The modernization became necessary because of damages on the facade and building-technology that was not longer up to date. The Degelo office from Basel, Switzerland won the first place of the European-wide competition in 2006. The draft of Degelo with a new groundbreaking architectural	12:00-12:30

	form responds strongly to the urban context. Through the new façade, the building becomes part of the environment, and the environment becomes part of the building. The reduced outer surface of the building, the high energy standard, high-quality sun protection glazing, triple insulation, and ground water cooling system will in the future lead to an energy saving of more than 60 percent.
5.	Tramway to model district Vauban and walk to restaurant	12:30-13:00
6.	Lunch	13:00-14:15
7.	Vauban: The model district Vauban is a former military barracks that was built in 1938. In the 1990s, it was converted into a new urban district with a very special quality of life. Learn how this district has become an internationally famous example of sustainable residential development: ▪ Mobility ▪ Renewable energies ▪ Green corridors ▪ Citizen participation ▪ Passive and low energy houses ▪ Joined housing development In 2010, the Vauban city district was presented at the EXPO in Shanghai as an example for sustainable city planning.	14:15-15:45
8.	Tram to city center	15:45-16:00
9.	Freiburg Transportation Concept Introduced in 1999, new Freiburg Central Station is the central traffic hub of the city. The tramway bridge crossing the station allows for easy combination of rail and urban public transport. The solar facade of the stations high-rise buildings also symbolizes Freiburg's claim as a Solar City. The Mobile as a combined service center around traffic services and as a bicycle parking garage complements the concept of sustainable mobility. Introduction to Freiburg transportation planning and presentation of mobile operators and tenants like the Car-Sharing association or the Café Velo.	16:00-16:45

10.	Visit to one of the most ecological hotels in the world with solar collectors, solar modules, and four small wind power installations on the roof garden, energy and water saving measures, a heating plant using wood pellets and a ground water cooling system. The hotel consists of different buildings, a main building from the 19th century and more recent buildings from around 1980. The whole complex has been refurbished step by step in the last years.	16:45-17:30

General Collaboration

Collaboration between the University of Tasmania and Germany has been varied over the past five years. General collaboration with University of Tasmania faculties and the success of research scholarships/sponsorship indicates that there is a healthy level of engagement.

Sixty-six percent of alumni are in the two age brackets of 20-29 and 30-39 years of age.

Students at UTAS: Germany

Traditionally the number of German students studying at the University has been stable. During 2016 there has been an increase in non-award students studying at the University.

Collaborative Research

The University of Tasmania is ranked 10th of the Australian Universities collaborating with Germany by publication volume. The University of Tasmania has a co-publication history with the University of Freiburg via Professor David Forrester's affiliation with the cooperative Research Centre for Forestry. Professor Forrester is currently the Chair of Silviculture at the University of Freiburg.

available to join at 1030 if Katrina is amenable. I work with Katrina on many things so she knows me, but I do not know if the main subject of your discussion is the city partners project you mentioned last night, but that is one of the things I am most keen to discuss with you. It does seem to be a good group with whom to have that conversation and I could bring the University perspective.

Am I able to leave it to you to query Katrina if this works for her and let me know? I can be in the city in 15 minutes.

I am still also interested in mtg with you and Helen on Thursday morning to either further the conversation or start it fresh. At the very least Helen and I are both on the joint delegation to the UniverCities conference in Budapest next week, so we could focus on that and how we might make it even more useful with your insights.

With much appreciation very your time,

Meet Eric Corijn at the ACA Annual Conference 2016

UniverCities
Higher education institutions and their habitat

Budapest, 20-22 November 2016

Which 'habitat' do higher education institutions and knowledge industries require, where do they thrive? In metropolises and megapolises, which attract talent because of the tolerant environment and the advanced technology they provide, as the American urban studies theorist Richard Florida argues? Possibly. But is this the only 'environment' in which higher education institutions flourish? What about all these cosy little towns, such as Oxbridge, Lund, or Freiburg, which are hosts to internationally well-reputed universities? And, not to forget, remote underdeveloped regions with declining demographies or regions undergoing economic transformation, where universities are being founded as instruments of economic and social rejuvenation. In these cases, it is the university or college which is to rebuild the town or region - and not the other way around.

The ACA Annual Conference 2016 will address all these different 'habitats' - big cities, small towns and remote and challenged regions. In doing so, it will not only explore the relationship between higher education institutions and municipalities, but also of university-enterprise interaction and cooperation between academic institutions and civil society actors in their city, town, or region.

Once again, ACA has invited many highly reputed speakers. One of them is Eric Corijn, a cultural philosopher, social scientist and Professor emeritus in Social and Cultural Geography at the Vrije Universiteit (VUB) in Brussels. UNIVERSITY of TASMANIA

Mr Robert Dobrzynski
General Manager
Launceston City Council
PO Box 396
LAUNCESTON TAS 7250

Rob,

Dear ~~Mr Dobrzynski~~

Following from our conversation about the UniverCities conference in Budapest at the end of November and the opportunity to visit a small number of university cities in Europe at that time, I know that Council is carefully considering my invitation to join the delegation as it looks to the future of Launceston and indeed the state.

The vision of the University of Tasmania is to embed the state's only university at the heart of the Tasmanian community and its cities. In our visits to modern, post-industrial communities around the world, we are seeing the impact of enabling innovation, the creation of new knowledge, and investment in human capital to revitalise cities and their regions.

We believe the University can bring these elements together through strategic investment in infrastructure and programs for the benefit of Launceston at Inveresk, at Burnie on West Park and in the CBD of Hobart. International experience demonstrates that university cities can create a sustainable education ecosystem that drives social and economic reinvigoration.

The participation of Launceston in such a delegation and in conjunction with the UniverCities conference would be instrumental in driving these outcomes. It could precipitate the development of sister city relationships for our Tasmanian cities, in areas of strength and commonality with other university cities in the post-industrial era. It also could offer opportunities for deeper engagement with exemplars of shared research and emerging sustainable disciplines and practices, such as in wood science, design and architecture. Ultimately, engagement from Launceston in this delegation would deepen the historical relationship between Launceston and the University and catalyse ideas for how we could work together in close partnership for the future.

With the Tasmanian Government, we are working diligently to address the education deficit in Tasmania that is holding back the state's potential. We firmly believe that through working together with our cities, we can together design a different future for Tasmania.

Dear ~~Mayor~~ Anita

The University is continuing its focus on bringing the University into Tasmanian cities. I am keen to explore how we work together on a strategy with the Burnie City Council, along with the City of Launceston and City of Hobart, to drive socioeconomic outcomes for the whole state through a shared commitment to investment in human capital and innovation.

Building on the successful delegation to the "UniverCities. Higher education institutions and their habitat" conference held in Budapest last November with representatives of the Hobart City Council, I would like to extend an invitation for you to accompany me to explore exemplars in the United Kingdom and Europe in May 2017.

This will include attending the "Going Global" annual conference run by the British Council, which offers an open forum to explore how universities support city-regional economies and social and civic engagement, connect the world's cities to global knowledge and talent and address global challenges. "Going Global 2017" will be held from 22 - 23 May 2017 in London. I propose that delegates arrive in Europe in mid-May and return to Australia on the evening of 23 May. The intent would be to visit exemplar university cities prior to attending the conference to experience first-hand the social, cultural and economic aspects of university-led revitalisation. As you are aware, the Cambridge City Deal has brought the civic side of town and the university together to face particular challenges to ensure economic revitalisation, with Cambridgeshire now one of the UK's top three growing economies.

I have also extended similar invitations to the Mayors of Hobart and Launceston.

I would be happy to provide any additional information or please contact my Chief of Staff, Moya Fyfe, on [redacted] at your convenience.

Dear Professor Rathjen

I wanted to take this opportunity to write to you on a number of really positive matters for the City and UTAS.

Firstly I wanted to assure you that the Council is completely committed to and shares UTAS's aspirations to move into the inner city. The continued positive news regarding the STEM project is one of the most genuinely exciting prospects this city has faced in decades.

At its Council meeting of the 6th February the Aldermen received a report from Aldermen Briscoe, Burnet and the General Manager on their recent attendance at the UniverCities conference in Budapest as well as the study tour to Freiburg and Cambridge with your team. To say they came back enthused would be an understatement. As a result of this meeting the Council resolved:

- That the MOU between our organisations should be reviewed with the intent to strengthen its strategic nature
- To hold discussions with you to seek UTAS's partnership in undertaking a significant socio-economic analysis of the University's move into the City
- As the City commences the process to develop a new future vision for Hobart that we engage UTAS as a strategic partner in developing this vision.

Furthermore the Council wishes to make a submission to the pending Australian Government's Smart Cities and Suburbs program, again which we believe could be greatly enhanced by UTAS's involvement particularly around a transport based project
Finally I thought you would also be interested to know that the Council has agreed to participate in the European Unions 'Twin Cities urban Sustainability' project and it is possible that we may be paired with either Freiburg or Copenhagen. I will keep you informed of progress in this regard.

I cannot think of a more positive time in this city's history and in this environment of City Deals at a national level, your continued vision, partnership and participation in Hobart's future is critical. I would appreciate it if you would give some thought as to who best within UTAS can assist in the socio-economic analysis and advise me accordingly.

Yours sincerely

Alderman Sue Hickey
LORD MAYOR
